Flight of the White Pelicans

A flock of immature white pelicans take flight after being spooked by nosy fishermen recently in the Louisiana marsh. The birds often stop to rest in the Gulf Coast area on their annual migrations to and from South America. The huge, white birds have a wingspan of 110 inches and flies with their necks tucked, usually in a "V" formation. The white pelican doesn't plunge into the water from the air to feed like the Brown Pelican, instead feeds while swimming.

85-unit apartment complex proposed for Coleman Ave.

BY BENNIE SHALLBETTER
Staff Writer

A proposed 85-unit apartment complex will be one of the topics of discussion at the Monday, Dec. 29, meeting of the Waveland Planning and Zoning Commission.

The meeting will be held at 6 p.m. at the Waveland Police Department and Courthouse building on Highway 90.

According to records at the city building permits office, Mack Trelles, of Baton Rouge, has proposed to build an 85-unit apartment complex at the corner of Coleman Avenue and Bourgeois on property that he inherited from his father. Coleman Avenue is zoned commercial.

The controversy seemed to come in when neighbors noticed someone putting a sign on Terrace Avenue announcing that Trelles plans to ask the city for a zoning change for the property bordering Terrace and adjoining the proposed development. Terrace runs parallel to Coleman Avenue and is zoned residential.

The property in question, said zoning official Christine Gallagher, is a fifty foot strip of land that goes through from Trelles' Coleman Avenue property to Terrace.

Gallagher said that Trelles' plans show that he is asking to use the fifty foot strip as parking for apartment residents and staff and as a proposed second exit for the complex.

Gallagher said plans state that the area would be appropriately landscaped and aesthetically pleasing to the community. A public hearing will be held on the matter on Monday. Those interested should attend.

In 2003, approximately 26 stories about drug-related news covered the front pages of the Sea Coast Echo.

Other top stories included high profile elections, an annexation battle and a healthcare crisis.

The following stories have been edited for space and time-related issues or are a culmination of several stories published in different issues.

K-9 sniffs out 55 pounds of dope on bus
Jan. 2

On Dec. 29, 2002, the Hancock County Sheriff's Department recovered some 55 pounds of marijuana from a bus on Interstate 10 following a routine traffic violation stop, according to Sheriff Steve Garber.

Garber said, "Lt. Jimmy Esposito stopped a Tornado bus eastbound on Interstate 10 for not having a tag. A consent to search was received from the driver, and K-9 Dax was put in the cargo area of the bus. Dax's search revealed 55.61 pounds of marijuana concealed in a large duffel bag."

"No claim ticket was on the duffel bag, so no arrest was made. The narcotics case has been turned over to Agent Abe Long of the Sheriff's Narcotics Division," Garber reported.

Healthcare Crisis

In late January Hancock county physicians threatened to join with physicians all along the coast to stage a walk out in response to exorbitant medical malpractice premiums, demanding that the state legislature do something.

Hancock graduate finds Naval Academy challenging, rewarding

BY SHANNON JENKINS
Staff Writer

College life for a recent Hancock High graduate resembles nothing like what is expected of a young student 1,000 miles away from home for the first time.

As a freshman — or a "plebe" in her case — Andrea White cannot listen to music in her dorm, and she must address higher classmates as sir or ma'am.

These are not odd hazing rituals, but rather the traditional practice of students at the U.S. Naval Academy in Annapolis, Md.

For this 19-year-old Diamondhead native, the academy has been both a challenging and rewarding experience.

In addition to Chemistry I, Calculus I, leadership, English, naval history, boxing and wrestling, White was also required to take a sport during her first semester. Since boxing and wrestling are considered as physical education, she chose Judo.

"I had never gotten a 'B' in school," White said. "Now, I'm just happy to get by with a 'C'. You have so many obligations there."

As the salutatorian of her 2003 graduating class, White said she enjoys the stiff competition among her peers at the academy.

"There are really dedicated people at the academy," she said. "You have the nation's best and brightest. The competition is really high. Everyone there is the best at what they do."

To ensure that White and the thousands of other students are well-rounded, the academy requires that its pupils involve themselves in other after-school programs. White chose the glee club as one of her extracurricular activities. With the glee club and her other obligations, White has about 12 hours off campus during the week.

"The glee club is probably the best thing I joined at the academy," she said. "I get to go to a lot of places."

Both the male and female glee clubs recently sang for President Bush at "Christmas in Washington," which aired Dec. 14 on TNT. "When the president sang with us, he was less than 10 feet away," she said. "It was neat being with the president the day we found out that Saddam was caught."

White made another television appearance when she and the women's glee club was featured on the Today Show on Christmas Day. The performance was taped on Dec. 10 in the chapel at the academy.

During spring break, the women's glee club will travel to Hawaii for a retreat.

"You can associate with people who are similar," she said about the women's glee club. "They can help by tutoring or doing hair and makeup. It's like a family."

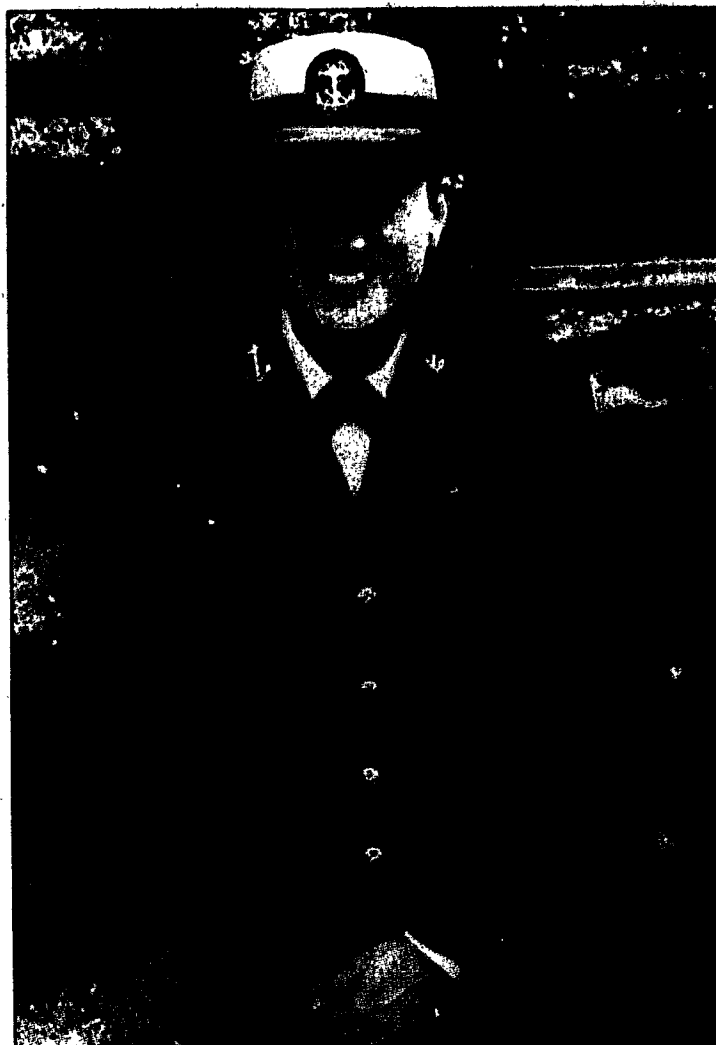

Although she is looking forward to the trip, White won't be basking in the sun all day.

"We practice twice as much during a retreat," she said. "Sometimes we rehearse all day."

Despite the long hours the glee club requires, White said it has given her the opportunity to gather with about 50 other young women in a male-dominated school.

"We're very proud she can survive in a predominately man's world," said Brenda White, who was very happy to have her daughter home for the holidays.

This was White's first time to come home since starting college. Her family visited her during parents' weekend in August and for Thanksgiving. Her mother said the academy takes up a great deal of time because it is very demanding.

"It's not a typical college where everyone looks forward to going out on the weekend," her mother said. "It's more than college, it's an experience that no other college can provide."

Brenda White said she and her husband, John, are very proud of their daughter who will return to school on Jan. 5.

Once White has completed her four years at the academy, she has a five-year obligation to the Navy. She also plans to take two years of naval flight.

New seafood ordinances

The Mississippi Department of Marine Resources (DMR) is reminding seafood dealers and seafood processors that the approved new requirements to Ordinance 9.004 (I), an ordinance to regulate statistical reporting and confidentiality of statistical data from marine fisheries, went into effect November 1.

The new requirements are being implemented to help prevent the sale of recreationally caught spotted seatrout, red drum, cobia and flounder.

stabilize premiums. The walkout threatened area patients with the possibility of closed offices and canceled procedures. Supervisors declared a local state of emergency.

Legislators worked frantically to avoid a crisis and find a long term solution. Patients were advised that emergencies would be handled in Hattiesburg or Louisiana.

By early February doctors were in the midst of a walkout with surgeons taking a leave of absence and physicians closing offices. Supervisors in Hancock and Harrison Counties asked Governor Ronnie Musgrove to declare a state wide state of emergency.

State Senators approved a bill that would allow state sponsored medical malpractice insurance for physicians who were unable to obtain coverage elsewhere. That week, encouraged by the pending bill, many physicians returned to work. Some doctors still face challenges to keep their malpractice insurance

Annexation

In mid June Bay St. Louis Councilmen passed and annexation ordinance announcing their intention to add a vast area between Hwy. 603 and the Jourdan River and running all the way north of I-10, incorporating both sides of the Hwy. 603 business district, to the city. The proposed annexation would add 4,000 citizens to the city's 8,200 and double the physical size of the city.

The news came as a shock to most, including Waveland's Mayor Tommy Longo, who said he learned of the city's intentions by reading it in the paper. He said he was surprised that the Bay would try to annex both sides of Hwy. 603 because the two city's had an unwritten agreement of growth.

As Mayor Eddie Favre proceeded on goodwill tours promising potential new residents lower fire insurance rates to offset higher city property taxes, a team of attorney's were working overtime in Waveland to gather paperwork to file their own annexation petition in Chancery Court. When they filed the petition on July 23, they discovered that Bay St. Louis had not yet filed their own petition.

Soon after the Riverview Civic Association headed by Johanna Spicuzza began work to gather names on a petition protesting the annexation plans. The petition became a part of court records in mid October.

A new court date has been set for January 23 in Hancock County Chancery Court to continue the proceedings.

Alcan Cable to close June 5

More than a hundred people found out June 3 that their jobs would cease to exist within two months at Alcan Cable in Bay St. Louis.

Alcan Inc. announced its decision to close the facility by Aug. 15 because it will "consolidate its cable production facilities to improve the performance of its cable business."

"This decision is difficult, but has been made necessary by the prolonged poor market conditions and overcapacity in the cable market," said Ian Hewett, president of Alcan Cable, in a press release. "Moving forward, Alcan will focus production at its four remaining cable facilities and continue to provide high quality cable products and service to our customers."

Pat Persico, manager of corporate communications and media relations at Alcan, conducted a press conference June 3.

"This decision is not a reflection on the Bay St. Louis employees," she said. Persico said the Bay St. Louis facility was chosen because its line can be absorbed by Alcan's other facilities.

She said the company will also offer a limited number of job opportunities within its other facilities.

Of the 116 employees, 92 are on hourly pay and 24 are on salary. The average labor wage, Persico said, is approximately $16 an hour, not including benefits.

Alcan Cable, which is based in Atlanta, Ga., is a division of Alcan Aluminum Corporation.

Elections

August runoff elections saw Democrat David Kopf win over Incumbent Mike Ladner for the position of Hancock County School Superintendent later winning over challenger Terrell Randolph; Ernest Taylor beat Mary Izzy Coster for the position of Constable district 2; and James Jay Lagasse III beat Jerry Heitzmann by 9 votes for Justice Court Judge Place 2, later winning over challenger Albert Necaise.

November general elections saw few major upsets.

Incumbent Steve Garber won a re-election for sheriff over challenger Richard Fayard; Incumbent Pam Metzler won re-election for circuit clerk over challenger Emilie Magnon; Incumbent Jimmie Ladner Jr. won re-election as tax assessor/collector over challenger Matt Burke.

In the Supervisors race the only upset occurred early on in the primaries when Incumbent District 1 Supervisor Jeep Ladner was ousted by challenger David Yarborough, who went on to win against challenger Ralph West. District 2 Supervisor Rocky Pullman ran unopposed; Incumbent District 3 Supervisor Lisa Cowand beat challenger Louie Ladner; Incumbent District 4 Supervisor Bobby Glover and Incumbent District 5 Supervisor Jay Cuevas beat challenger Nell Frisbee. Incumbent City Clerk Tim Kellar also ran unopposed.

Boys and Girls Club to open in Hancock Dec. 4

The Boys and Girls Clubs of the Gulf Coast will add another branch when a Hancock County unit opens on Jan. 6 with an after-school program at Second Street Elementary School in Bay St. Louis.

The club, open to all students in public and private schools in Hancock County, also will have a summer program when schools close.

"I'm very excited," said Kim Stasny, Bay-Waveland school superintendent. "It seems like a wonderful opportunity for our kids."

Planning for the youth development program - a United Way of South Mississippi initiative in cooperation with the Bay St. Louis-Waveland School District, the Hancock County Human Resources Agency and the Boys and Girls Club of the Gulf Coast - began in August.

Said Lora Mederos, director of the human resources agency: "Our agency has recognized this as a desperate need the community has had for many years. We're anxious to see it get started and grow and flourish."

The mission of the national organization, which is over 140 years old, is to help youngsters realize their full potential as productive, responsible and caring citizens.

The new Hancock County unit will be funded by an early childhood grant from the Mississippi Department of Human Services Office for Children and Youth plus seed money from the Boys and Girls Club of America, United Way of South Mississippi, the state Attorney General's office and community funding. Chuck Benvenuti, one of the Hancock County organizers, said $20,000 to $30,000 will have to be raised locally to support the program during its first year.

Initially, the Hancock County unit will serve 100 youngsters ages 5 through 18 for the after school program (2:30-6 p.m. weekdays) and 200 to 220 youngsters during the summer (7 a.m. to 6 p.m. weekdays). The after-school program will include a snack; the summer program will include breakfast and lunch.

Maurice resigns from Bay Fire Department Dec. 25

Bay St. Louis Fire Department's Deputy Fire Chief Gary Maurice resigned from the department Tuesday, Dec. 16, stating personal health as a reason, according to Mayor Eddie Favre.

"We also learned of pending federal drug charges against Maurice. This came as a real shocker, an absolute heart breaker. We have not been able to get all of the information on the matter, as the charges are federal," Favre said.

"You know, Gary has been so involved in city, community and youth activities, always volunteering with just about all the happenings in the city," Favre added.

Favre indicated he had just gotten word of the matter, as something apparently happened about a year ago, and Maurice was scheduled on December 17, 2003, to have the matter settled in Federal Court.

"Everything had been on the Q.T. (hush-hush) and now I understand the drug matter in federal court is to take place in either February, or March 2004," Favre said.

Maurice is a 23-year veteran with the Bay St. Louis Fire Department, working through the ranks up to Deputy Fire Chief.

One of Maurice's important community activities included, being the director of the Annual Hancock County Doll and Toy Fund, which provides toys to deserving boys and girls.

Busted near Bay Bridge Dec. 25

Agent Johnny Alison (top) displays crack cocaine purchased from two suspects with an estimated value of $850. "Our Narcotics Division has been receiving information about persons from Harrison County and the Slidell area coming to the county to sell drugs," Hancock Sheriff's Narcotics Division Chief Major Matt Karl, said Monday. "One of our undercover officer's over the weekend was approached by a subject at a local highway business offering to sell crack cocaine. Several more contacts were made and two suspects were arrested Monday afternoon and charged with sale of a controlled substance."

Arthur D. Keyes, 22, 4004 Nassau St., and Lynell Keyes, 22, 2207, 23rd St., both of Gulfport, were arrested near the Bay St. Louis bridge Monday and charged with the alleged sale of a controlled substance. Bonds were set at $7,500 each, and both were booked at the Hancock County Criminal Justice Facility. Alison is in charge of the case.

Favre remembered by many Dec. 25

When Irvin E. Favre, 58, died of a massive heart attack on Sunday his family, friends, and indeed the whole county lost a beloved member of the community.

On Dec. 22, the family watched as son Brett led the Green Bay Packers to a 41-7 win over the Raiders in Oakland, California, Brett's tribute game to his father, the man who had taught him to give his all to the game. They all knew it was what Irvin would have wanted them to do.

To many, Irvin will be remembered as the father of football great Brett Favre, the quarterback who put Kiln, Mississippi on the map and brought visitors from around the world to see the sleepy little town where Brett grew up.

To his wife of 38 years Bonita, Irvin will be remembered as a wonderful husband. To his children Brett, Scott, Jeff and Brandi he will be remembered as a loving father, who lived and breathed for football and his family.

Others will remember him from the family's restaurant, Favre's on the Bayou, from where he broadcast a weekly sports radio show on WTMI on Monday evenings.

Favre's career spanned three decades and included 22 years as coach of the Hancock North Central High School Hawks. He led the Hawks through many winning seasons and their first 10 win season in school history in 1977.

He also took the team to the state playoffs in 1988 and on to win division in 1989, both for the first time in school history. He resigned from Hancock in 1994, but not before the team beat traditional rivals D'Iberville for his last win as coach. He coached all of his sons while at the school.

Visitation and services were held on Christmas Eve at St Paul's Catholic Church in Pass Christian with internment following at Live Oak Cemetery.

Cuevas' Quotes

by Ellis C. Cuevas
Publisher Emeritus

We need peace for everyone

Don't become a DUI statistic

As we all prepare for the New Year, we need to think about the things we will want to accomplish.

Things which have happened this past year are history, and there is no way of changing them.

I know many of us will begin to gather our thoughts on New Year resolutions, and this is good.

But how many of us really keep all the resolutions we make.

Possibly it is better to make one or two resolutions and do our best to keep them.

Many things have happened during 2003, especially the War in Iraq.

Families have been separated from each other, children from fathers and even many young children from mothers.

A big thing needed for 2004 is peace for everyone.

We need to thank our men and women in uniform for the sacrifices they have given our country. Hundreds who will never really come home.

And Iraq is not the only country where there is no peace. Violence seems to be spreading around the world.

Hopefully, those are were not with their families during this Holiday season will return to their families very soon.

Many from the area will be contemplating trips for the coming New Year weekend.

If you are planning a trip, most law enforcement agencies recommend drivers give themselves some extra time for the travel.

Holidays increase the number of vehicles on our highways and roadways, so one may not be able to travel as fast, as you normally do.

I do know on a local level, there will be extra patrols out monitoring traffic on our highways and roadways.

The most feared drivers are the DUIs. Many motorists are zapped during holidays because of driving while drinking.

There are some folks who apparently have to drink to celebrate the holidays, if you are one of those folks, have a designated driver.

The consequences of drinking and driving has cost the lives of so many innocent people. And a DUI in an accident could lose their job, their license, be fined and even jailed.

Think twice before being a DUI.

Mississippi editorial roundup

By The Associated Press
A collection of editorials from around Mississippi.

The Commercial Dispatch, Columbus, on "State should hike tax on cigarettes."

The state Legislature should do what it hasn't done in nearly 20 years, increase Mississippi's cigarette tax. Making smokers pay more would have two positive effects: It should discourage people from smoking and it would generate much-needed revenues for the state treasury.

Most states have recently raised their cigarette taxes, but Mississippi's 18-cent-a-pack rate has been the same since 1985.

State lawmakers have increased taxes on essential items like food and gasoline since then, but they've left the 18-cent rate on cigarettes as is, making it one of the smallest in the country.

Mississippi has the fifth-lowest cigarette tax among the 50 states and the District of Columbia, according to statistics compiled this year by the Federation of Tax Administrators. The national average is 59 cents a pack.

In the past three years, according to the FTA, 32 states have upped the tax on cigarettes. Mississippi is long overdue for an increase.

The state Legislature, which convenes Jan. 6 to start its four-year term, should increase the tax to something like the 68 cents proposed by advocates who want a healthy Mississippi. This could generate an extra $120 million a year on top of the $55 million Mississippi currently gets from its cigarette tax, according to the State Tax Commission.

However, if the new assessment had its desired effect, discouraging smoking, revenues would be less.

Hopefully, smokers, especially young ones, would be deterred from puffing up if they had to spend so much money to do it.

Dedicating whatever amount's generated to health programs would also go a long way in reaping the benefits from the higher tax.

In Mississippi, about 4,900 adults die each year from smoking-related illnesses, according to published reports. Millions of public and private dollars are spent to care for those sickened by tobacco.

A 1982 political cartoon depicted Haley Barbour pushing a wheelchair crossing paths with John C. Stennis pushing a baby carriage.

It was the upstart Barbour trying to unseat the revered Stennis, a legend in Mississippi politics and in the U.S. Senate.

Fast forward 21 years, and Barbour, now a seasoned Washington politico and insider, topples a highly popular incumbent Democrat to be elected the second Republican governor in Mississippi in 12 years. Barbour's election also was the top story in the state in 2003.

The state's top news stories are annually selected by the Mississippi staff of The Associated Press and its member news organizations.

Among other events ranking among the top stories of the year were the state's soldiers marching off to war in the Middle East and a headline grabbing payoff scheme involving prominent judges and an attorney.

Republicans won three of the four elections for governor this fall — Barbour in Mississippi, Arnold Schwarzenegger in California's recall and Ernie Fletcher in Kentucky.

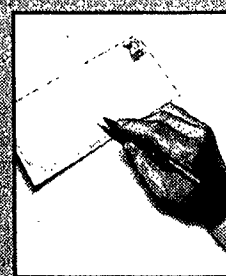

Barbour overcame a high black turnout with overwhelming support from whites to defeat Gov. Ronnie Musgrove. The two battled, often bitterly, over economic issues. Barbour got 53 percent of the overall vote.

Black turnout may have gotten a boost in Mississippi because Democratic nominees in two down-ballot races were black. Both lost, however, as just 8 percent of whites voted for Barbara Blackmon for lieutenant governor and only 22 percent of whites backed Gary Anderson for treasurer.

President Bush, Vice President Dick Cheney and former New York Mayor Rudolph Giuliani stumped for Barbour while Musgrove tried in vain to turn his opponent's experience as a Beltway insider against him.

Barbour, 56, promised he would build a racially and politically diverse administration when he takes office in January.

"My job is to be governor for all Mississippians, regardless of whether they voted for me or not, regardless of what part of the state they're from," Barbour said after the election.

Mississippians went off to war in 2003, as National Guard and reserve units were called to duty in Afghanistan and Iraq. As the year ended, 10 soldiers with Mississippi ties had died in the conflict in the Middle East.

On Dec. 2, Spc. Raphael Davis, a 24-year-old father of three, became the 10th Mississippian — and the second Mississippi National Guard member — killed in Iraq when an explosive device hit the vehicle he was driving.

Davis was among 650 members of the 223rd Engineer Battalion deployed to Iraq in January.

By December, more than 2,600 National Guard

A recent survey of Mississippians showed a majority are for higher cigarette taxes. The Legislature and Barbour should reflect that support and raise the rate. Mississippi would be healthier and wealthier.

Hattiesburg American on "Mississippi needs new paradigm"

The state of Mississippi needs to dismantle its juvenile training system and put local/community programs in its place.

So said state Attorney General Mike Moore recently — and we agree wholeheartedly with Moore's assessment of the situation.

"I think it's an outdated system," said the outgoing attorney general of the state's two juvenile training schools: The Columbia Training School and the Oakley Training School near Raymond. "Incarcerating 11-, 12-, 9-, 10-year-old kids is not a good system. We ought to have local, regional, community, adolescent offender programs around our state to handle this."

The stinging indictment issued this summer by the U.S. Justice Department regarding disciplinary procedures at Columbia and Oakley has had, and is having, a positive, twofold impact.

First, it has forced state officials to investigate allegations of abuse and implement sweeping changes in the system.

Second, it is causing state officials to re-examine the philosophical premise upon which the training schools were established.

Regarding the latter, this dialogue should have begun years ago. The treatment and punishment of juveniles should be handled at the local level, whenever possible. State policy should be geared toward making this a reality.

Mississippi's long-term goal should be to phase out its dependence on juvenile training schools.

This summer, the Justice Department issued a 48-page report that alleged serious violations at Columbia and Oakley. Among other things, the report said students were shackled to poles, hogtied, ordered to exercise and then forced to eat their own vomit. Some suicidal girls at Columbia were stripped and placed in isolation.

Other allegations include the use of pepper spray for punishment, an excessive exercise regimen and unsanitary kitchen conditions.

Over the past six months, the state Department of Human Services, which operates the school, has implemented key reforms at Columbia and Oakley. Mississippi's juvenile training system is better than it was six months ago.

However, when it comes to reforming juvenile offenders in Mississippi, the state needs to do more than make quantitative changes to the system. We need a new paradigm.

The Meridian Star on "The Grinch."

Some politician gets tagged every year about this time as the Grinch, and Christmas 2003 is U.S. Rep. Gene Taylor's turn.

Probably as a prelude to next year's congressional elections, yes, 2004, is another election year, the National Republican Congressional Committee targeted Taylor as opposing many of the things most conservatives believe are good, giving his constituents the Christmas equivalent of a lump of coal.

Opposed tax cuts that helped create hundreds of thousands of new jobs last quarter and led to a rebound in the stock market.

For his part, Taylor said it was false to call President Bush's proposals tax cuts when, because of the deficit and the national debt, the U.S. Treasury will have to borrow money. Taxes will only be deferred, he said, because the debt will have to be paid with interest by taxing the next generations of Americans, and every dollar of reduced taxes will be offset by Treasury borrowing.

Put 4.7 million health care jobs in jeopardy by voting against funding for community hospitals.

Voted against giving 25 million American families a child tax rebate to spend just before school started this fall.

Rejected plan to create over 800,000 jobs through new energy projects that would also help reduce energy and heating bills for families and businesses.

Voted to defeat Medicare drug benefit for seniors endorsed by AARP and 452 health care and patient organizations.

The Republicans put Taylor on their "naughty list" for toeing the party line for Democratic leaders.

Our guess is that the Christmas mud won't stick and that, come election day 2004, Taylor will be just as popular with his constituents as he was in 2002, when he won re-election with 75 percent of the vote.

members from Mississippi were on active duty. The call up of reserve units pushed the total to more than 3,000.

The capture of Saddam Hussein had military families in Mississippi, and across the nation, hoping loved ones would soon be home from overseas.

"I hope some of those people fighting because they wanted (Saddam) back or they were scared he was coming back, it will give them a reason to give up," said Chief Warrant Officer Stan Caldwell of the Mississippi Army National Guard's First 104th Cavalry of Tupelo.

In July, less than a year after the state Legislature took action to rein in multimillion-dollar awards in Mississippi courts, an attorney is accused of paying off judges, including a Supreme Court justice, in exchange for favorable verdicts.

The much-anticipated federal indictment alleged the lawyer and three judges were caught in a web of guaranteed loans and debt payoffs.

The lawyer, Paul Minor of Biloxi, is accused of funneling hundreds of thousands of dollars in loans and gifts to Supreme Court Justice Oliver Diaz Jr.; the justice's former wife, Jennifer; and former Harrison County judges Wes Teel and John Whitfield.

The defendants have professed their innocence. Trial is scheduled for March 1 in Jackson.

Diaz took a voluntary leave of absence from the court. A tribunal in December ordered Diaz suspended with pay pending the outcome of the trial.

Dixie Darlings headed to London

USM Dixie Darlings

The University of Southern Mississippi's world-famous Dixie Darlings will perform in the 18th New Year's Day 2004 parade in London, with more than one million spectators expected to see the parade as it weaves along a 2.2 mile route through the city. Founded in 1954 by Dr. Raymond Mannoni, and now under the direction of Tracy Ott Smith, the renowned drill team performs with Southern Miss' The Pride of Mississippi Marching Band, and has been referred to as "The Rockettes of the Gridiron." The Dixie Darlings, appearance in the parade is just one in a long history of high-profile performances, including at bowl games such as the Sugar Bowl and Liberty Bowl, along with countless television appearances. The current USM Dixie Darlings who are going to London include Kathryn Gray (bottom row at left), Megan Lee, Priscilla Austin, Les-Leigh Friedmann and (top row) Leanne Miller, Amanda Rabalais, Mandi Magill, Kristin Harris, Jennifer Cornette, Stephanie Severns. Not pictured are Emily Koppersmith, Tiffany Bird and Brandi Sharpe.

Revelers urged to ring in New Year safely

Celebrating the New Year should be fun and exciting, but Methodist Rehabilitation Center urges revelers to remember that incorrectly used fireworks can turn a joyful celebration into a dangerous event.

Dr. David Collipp, medical director of the rehab surgery program at Methodist Rehab, encourages children and adults to use extreme caution when handling fireworks. Children are most likely to be involved in firework-related injuries.

"Most fireworks can be relatively safe with proper and careful use," said Dr. Collipp. "However, some fireworks are very dangerous and can result in deaths, loss of eyesight, severe burns and amputation."

Dr. Collipp and Lauren Fairburn, director of Think First, Methodist Rehab's statewide injury prevention program, warn parents to never allow children to light fireworks or try to re-light fireworks that have not fully ignited.

"According to a U.S. Product Safety Commission study of fireworks injuries from June 22 to July 22, 2001, children under 15 years old accounted for about half of the number of fireworks injuries and children ages 10 to 14 had the highest injury rate,"

Fairburn said. "Most of those injuries were related to firecrackers, rockets and sparklers - just the kind of items that many parents buy for their kids."

Jackie Moore, fire safety educator for the Jackson Fire Department, says to check with your local police department to determine which fireworks are legal in your area.

Fairburn recommends that all children have adult supervision and says there are no completely safe fireworks. "Sparklers, smoke bombs and poppers are suggested for young children because they are the most safe," said Fairburn.

Think First tips for a safe celebration this New Year include:

- Only buy fireworks from licensed retail outlets.

- Check with your local police department to determine what fireworks are legal in your area.

- Never shoot fireworks in windy conditions.

- Don't purchase or use unlabeled fireworks.

- Never attempt to make your own fireworks and do not purchase or use any kits that are advertised for making fireworks.

- Never mix alcohol and fireworks.

- Use fireworks outdoors, in a safe area away from dry grass and buildings.

- Never extend any part of the body over a lit firework. Light one firework at a time and then walk back quickly.

- Never shoot fireworks from metal or glass containers.

- Never carry fireworks in your pocket.

- Never point or throw fireworks at people or animals.

- "The most effective way to reduce injuries is to focus on safety awareness and prevention," said Fairburn. "We want to do all we can to prevent traumatic, often life-changing injuries."

The Dixie Darlings are set to fly the flag in London at a treasured traditional British institution, The New Years Day Parade.

Excitement is mounting as they countdown the days before they join more than 7,500 performers, from a dozen nations, to give London a lift at the turn of the year.

Hundreds of thousands of spectators, and a mammoth television audience witness the streets of central London fill with colour, music and merriment.

Prime Minister Tony Blair has even been known to pop his head out of No.10 Downing Street to marvel at the spectacle.

As Big Ben strikes 12 Noon - the group will begin to make its way along the 2.2 mile route passing prestigious, historical sights such as Westminster Abbey, Downing Street, Trafalgar Square, Piccadilly Circus and The Ritz Hotel.

"We were thrilled to receive the invitation from the Lord Mayor," said President Of The Alumni Association. "The trip will prove to be a fantastic cultural experience for us all."

As well as taking part in the New Years Day Parade and performing in front of massive crowds, they will enjoy a richly educational and enjoyable stay in London.

They will meet people from a myriad of countries, visit historic sites such as Windsor Castle, Stonehenge and The Roman Baths and even take in a West End Show.

DMR receives grant for Coastal Fire Co-op

The Mississippi Department of Marine Resources was recently named as lead agency for the Coastal Mississippi Fire Management Cooperative CIAP grant. The purpose of the $437,000 grant is to expand the application of prescribed fire management in coastal Mississippi to reduce the risks of severe wildfires and maximize the ecological functions of our fire-adapted coastal ecosystems.

"It is critical that we address the problem of altered fire regimes in coastal Mississippi by shifting our focus from fire suppression to managing fire-adapted ecosystems," said DMR Executive Director William Walker. "This grant will allow us to work collaboratively to do that." Fire has played a vital role in shaping many of the ecosystems common to coastal Mississippi. Nearly all terrestrial and many wetland ecosystems experience fire at some interval, and many include plants and animals adapted to or dependent on periodic fires. When key attributes of a fire-adapted ecosystem are altered—for example, by fire suppression—the natural character and ecological functions of these ecosystems may be dramatically altered and degraded.

On the Mississippi Gulf Coast, altered fire regimes are primarily the result of fire suppression and changing land use. The suppression of natural periodic fires and the underuse of prescribed fire has resulted, in some instances, in a dangerous buildup of fuels and in altered habitats with degraded ecological functions. The trend in such areas is toward wildfires of increasing intensity and severity that threaten ecosystem health as well as lives and property.

The Coastal Mississippi Fire Management Cooperative is a collaborative effort of Hancock, Harrison, and Jackson County Fire Coordinators, the Mississippi Forestry Commission, the Land Trust for the Mississippi Coastal Plain, the Mississippi Department of Marine Resources, the USDA Forest Service, The Nature Conservancy, the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service and the Mississippi Department of Environmental Quality.

This cooperative effort is made possible through funding from the Mississippi Department of Environmental Quality.

TRACEY LADNER

Tracy Renee Ladner, 32, of Long Beach died Monday, Dec. 22, 2003, of a brain aneurysm. She was born on Aug. 31, 1971.

Tracy was a longtime resident of Long Beach and graduated from Long Beach High School in 1989. She was a varsity player on the Long Beach High volleyball and softball teams. She attended both Perkinston Junior College and the University of Southern Mississippi in Hattiesburg. She was employed as a loan processor at Special T Mortgage in Bay St. Louis where she will be missed by all that have come to know and love her. Tracy was a loving and compassionate woman. She is deeply loved by here family and friends. Her commitment and love for animals was evidenced by her volunteer work at the Friends of the Waveland Animal Shelter and constant care and adoption of cats, dogs and wildlife.

She is survived by her mother and dad, Patty and Joey Nelms; her father, Raymond Ladner; her grandmothers, Bobbie Davis and Sandy Cossairt; five brothers, Lenny Lawson, Shawn Ladner, Warren Ladner, Jared Ladner and Aaron Lawson; three nephews, Cody Lawson, Jesse Lawson and Cory Ladner; her loving cat, Binx; and a multitude of friends and love ones.

Friends have established an account in Tracy's name known.

Jerusalem, Damascus, Caesarea, Bethlehem would have been cities only mentioned in the Hebrew Bible. The Book of Revelation; predicting the end time results of the good and evil conflict would have been unread. Not available.

The Great Almighty God's love for His creation and wanting them to get to know Him would be hidden. He would have been to many, just another god.

However, Jesus said to His Father, I will gladly go to earth and take on a human childlike form; grow up among men, be mistreated and murdered. Doing so I will pay for the sins of all mankind. Now, man has away to find, to know and be with God forever.

"Thank you Jesus for your unconditional love."

MDOT to hire students before graduation

Students studying civil engineering at the University of Mississippi can earn $10,000 to $15,000 a year just for going to class and making good grades, thanks to an agreement with the Mississippi Department of Transportation.

MDOT announced the education assistance program at UM's Oxford campus earlier this month. The program, open to rising juniors or first-year graduate students, essentially hires students to study civil engineering, giving them state health insurance and a healthy stipend to help cover the costs of their education.

The only requirement, besides maintaining a good GPA, is that students go to work for MDOT once they graduate, using the skills they learned at Ole Miss.

"These students know that the minute they walk out the door of this university, they have a secure job with benefits waiting on them," said Bob Tavlin, MDOT's director for professional development.

Tavlin and other MDOT officials traveled to Oxford just before the fall semester's final exams to announce the program to UM civil engineering students.

"Our part of this is not to pay your tuition," Tavlin told the students. "Our part is to give you a leg up on the competition, a start in the working world. We want to give you a paycheck, and you earn it by getting a degree and coming to work for us."

Alex Cheng, chair of UM civil engineering, told students they could expect starting salaries close to $40,000 as MDOT engineers with a bachelor's degree, and could earn more with a master's degree.

Tavlin later said that MDOT developed the education assistance program three or four years ago, when a booming economy made it hard for the state to compete with high-paying private sector jobs in luring the best engineering graduates.

"Now, when a secure government job is more attractive, this program still allows us to bring in the cream of the crop," Tavlin said.

Undergraduate students who are accepted to the program can expect a summer internship with MDOT, medical insurance, state retirement credit and a $10,000 stipend per year. Graduate students receive $12,000, plus an additional $3,000 for research projects they conduct.

At MDOT, students will put to use what they learn in their UM classes in structural engineering of bridges, pavement design, transportation and environmental engineering, Cheng said.

"The program is a great opportunity for both our students and the state," Cheng said. "Our students get help with education expenses, and the state gets some of the South's best civil engineering graduates."

For more information, contact the UM Department of Civil Engineering at 662-915-7191 or http://www.olemiss.edu/depts/civil_eng.

New law fights identity theft

BY BONNIE COBLENTZ
MSU AG
COMMUNICATIONS

A new law set to go into effect Jan. 1 should make it easier for consumers to protect themselves from identity theft, a crime that claimed 814 Mississippi victims in 2002.

On Dec. 4, President Bush signed into law the Fair and Accurate Credit Transactions Act of 2003. According to the White House information on the legislation, it provides tools "that expand access to credit and other financial services for all Americans, enhance(s) the accuracy of consumers' financial information and help(s) fight identity theft."

Susan Cosgrove, family resource management agent in Newton County with the Mississippi State University Extension Service, said identity theft has become a huge problem in Mississippi and nationwide.

"The No. 1 type of identity theft is credit card fraud, followed by phone or utilities fraud, bank fraud, government documents or benefits fraud, loan fraud and employment-related fraud," Cosgrove said.

Identity theft is taking an individual's personal information and using it for financial fraud. It can involve stealing a person's credit card or bank account numbers or applying for loans and credit using another person's name and social security number.

Since 1999 when the Federal Trade Commission began collecting data on identity theft, the number of complaints has doubled each year. In 2002, there were 161,819 reported cases of identity theft nationwide.

In Mississippi, 46 percent of identity theft victims experience credit card fraud. Mississippi's averages in each of these categories track national trends. Cosgrove said the state ranks 39th nationally in the number of cases of identity theft reported.

With 75 victims, Jackson had the greatest number of reported cases of identity theft in 2002, followed by Brandon with 34, Gulfport with 31, Meridian with 27 and Biloxi with 23.

Since identity theft is an often hidden crime, Cosgrove said one of the best ways for consumers to fight it is by regularly checking their credit reports. The new law allows for one free credit report each year from each of the three credit reporting agencies.

"Check for accuracy as well as fraud," Cosgrove said. "Make sure there are no unauthorized charges that appear on your report. If you find mistakes, follow procedures to dispute it."

If accurate but negative information is on a credit report, time is the only way to make it better. Most items stay on a credit report for seven years and bankruptcy lasts for 10 years.

In addition to the annual free credit report, among the other provisions of the new law are:

- * Requiring merchants to only show the last five digits of credit card numbers on store receipts;

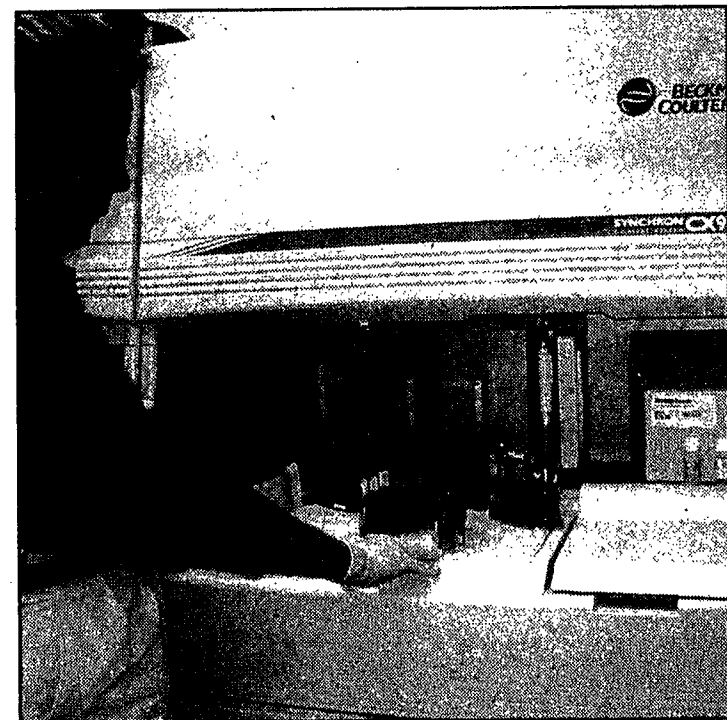

- * Creating a national system of fraud detection to make identity thieves more likely to be caught;

- * Establishing a nationwide system of fraud alerts for consumers to place on their credit files;

- * Requiring regulator to devise a list of red flag indicators of identity theft; and

- * Requiring lenders and credit agencies to take action before a victim even knows a crime has occurred.

"Good credit is one of the most valuable tools a consumer has. It is essential to financial well-being," Cosgrove said. "Everyone should build a good credit and work to protect the one they have."

Latest technology

Hancock Medical Center blood bank supervisor Ann Engerran, MT (ACSP) conducts tests on the laboratory's new Beckman Coulter equipment. According to lab manager Mickey Bryant, the Synchron CX-9 and Access 2 are faster and more cost effective to operate. In addition, a greater variety of complex applications can be performed on-site, decreasing the number of tests the hospital previously had to send to outside reference labs.

Peterman & Dunklin lead local football players in All-Conference college selections this year

JOSEPH W. GEX, II
STAFF WRITER

The small community that we live in has made a name for itself, recently, in the big world of college football. The state of Mississippi has also garnered tremendous national recognition in the sport, as well, on both the college and professional gridiron.

Stephen Peterman, of Waveland and a 2000 graduate of St. Stanislaus, has been selected to the Associated Press All-Southeastern Conference First-Team as an offensive lineman.

The 6-4, 321-lb guard has led the LSU Tigers to a 12-1 record overall, a #2 national ranking, an SEC championship and a berth in the Nokia Sugar Bowl to play Oklahoma for the BCS National Championship.

Peterman was a standout football, basketball, and track athlete at SSC.

Aaron Dunklin, also a 2000 graduate of SSC, has been named a first-team All-Big South Conference selection following the 2003 season.

Dunklin played wide receiver for Division II Charleston-Southern University in South Carolina and set five single season and career records following a two-year stint with the Pearl River

Community College Wildcats. He excelled in both football and basketball for the Rocks.

Jason Santiago and Kris Cannon, both 2001 graduates of SSC, were red-shirted this past season at Louisiana Tech University and Emporia State University, respectively. Both Santiago and Cannon played at PRCC in Poplarville following graduation from SSC.

Other top players from Mississippi receiving post-season recognition are Jesse Mitchell of Ole Miss via Moss Point, Eli Manning of Ole Miss via Newman High School in New Orleans, Chris Collins of Ole Miss via Amite County, and Jonathan Nichols of Ole Miss via Pillow Academy.

Mitchell anchored a resurgent Ole Miss defense as a 6-1, 270-lb defensive tackle. He was named to the AP All-SEC first team.

Manning, the 6-5, 218-lb record setting quarterback at Ole Miss, has helped lead his team to a 9-3 record, #16 ranking in the AP, a share of the SEC Western Division Championship and the January 2nd Cotton Bowl versus Oklahoma State in Dallas.

Manning was selected to the AP All-SEC first team and was chosen as the Offensive Most Valuable Player for the conference. He threw for 3,341 yards with 27 touchdowns and 9 interceptions.

He was also chosen for the SEC Coaches first-team and named the SEC Player of the Year. He becomes the third member of his family to receive that recognition following his father, Archie (Ole Miss quarterback 1968-70) and brother, Peyton (Tennessee quarterback 1994-97).

Following the season, Manning was also named the Maxwell Award winner which symbolizes the best all-around player in college football, Johnny Unitas Golden Arm award for the top senior quarterback, and the Conerly Trophy given to the top player in Mississippi. He also placed third in the Heisman Trophy balloting behind winner Jason White of Oklahoma and Larry Fitzgerald of Pittsburgh.

Collins, a 6-2, 195-lb wide receiver, was the favorite target of Manning in the Ole Miss offense. Collins was chosen AP All-SEC first-team following the 2003 season.

Nichols, a 6-0, 180-lb placekicker, was named to the AP All-SEC first-team and the SEC Coaches first-team following the 2003 season. He was also chosen as the Special Teams Player of the Year in the SEC after leading the SEC in scoring with 117 points. Nichols also won the Lou Groza Award which is given annually to the top kicker in college.

In 2003, Nichols set the Ole Miss career scoring mark surpassing former Ole Miss All-American Deuce McAllister. Nichols is a junior.

In the professional ranks, Steve McNair of Mt. Olive and the Tennessee Titans is having an All-Pro and NFL MVP season. He has the Titans on the verge of a division title despite playing the majority of the season injured. McNair is the NFL's top-rated passer heading into the final week of the season.

Brett Favre, of Hancock North Central and the Green Bay Packers, has his team poised to secure a post-season berth with a win in the final week of the season against the Denver Broncos.

Favre posted a career-best quarterback rating of 154.3 in the Packers Monday night game against the Oakland Raiders when he passed for 399 yards and four touchdowns on 23-of-30 passing. The performance came one day after the sudden and tragic death of Mississippi coaching legend and father Irvin Favre.

Favre won a Super Bowl with Green Bay back in 1996 and is the league's only three-time NFL MVP.

Tennessee Titans free safety Tank Williams, a Bay

High graduate, is enjoying his second season in the league following an All-American career at Stanford University. Williams was an All-Division player in football and stellar track athlete for the Tigers.

Shannon Garrett, a 1990 SSC graduate, completed his 10th season in the Canadian Football League with a Grey Cup championship. The Grey Cup is the CFL's equivalent of the Super Bowl.

Garrett was a All-Division standout in football and basketball and an All-State performer in track for SSC.

PRCC hosts free coaching clinic

Pearl River Community College will host a baseball coaches clinic Saturday, Jan. 10, at 2:30 p.m. here in Wildcat Stadium. PRCC head coach Jay Artigues and his staff along with coaches from the University of Southern Mississippi, William Carey College, and Petal High School will conduct the free clinic.

Artigues said there will be a free cookout beginning at 2:30 p.m. at Wildcat Stadium, followed by the clinic. All high school or recreational coaches, parents, and baseball enthusiasts are invited to attend.

For more information or to register, telephone Artigues at (601)403-1326.

Wahl qualifies for golf championships

James Wahl, a St. Stanislaus junior, qualified for the Mississippi Junior Golf Association (MJGA) Cup 2003 North South Cup team and the Wilson Arrowhead International Challenge Cup in Orlando, FL.

The MJGA Cup Teams takes the 10 top junior golfers for the past year in each group. The top 5 from South of I-20 make up the South Team, north of I-20 makes up the North team. These golfers were honored at a banquet on December 5, at the Natchez Eola Hotel in Natchez.

Match Play competition was held at Beau Pre Country Club Golf Course in Natchez. Wahl was 1 of 3 junior golfers from the Gulf Coast to make this team.

The Wilson Arrowhead International Challenge

Cup Event will take place December 30, 2003 thru January 3, 2004, at Southern Dunes Golf Course in Orlando, FL. The 13 member American team will compete against a 13 member European team in a similar competition as the Ryder-Cup events.

Wahl qualified for the American team at Tiger Point Golf Course in Pensacola, FL in August 2003. The American team has 9 golfers from Florida, 2 from Louisiana, 1 from Alabama and 1 from Mississippi.

Wahl has played golf for St. Stanislaus since 7th grade and resides in Diamondhead.

The websites for these golf tours and events are: www.arrowheadjgt.com and www.missgolf.org

1963 - Hancock's assessment swells by $85,425

TEN YEARS AGO

December 19, 1993 - Plans for a $2 million sewer system in the Kiln were aired last week for residents of the Northern Hancock County area. Residents of the Kiln Water and Fire Protection District, heard plans for a system that officials hope will serve 400 to 500 residences initially. Options for three different systems -- and ways to pay for the major project -- were aired at a public hearing sponsored by District Officials Tuesday.

-Hancock County school children collected almost 8 tons of used telephone directories in the recent recycling drive sponsored by the Hancock County Chamber of Commerce. Students, principals and teachers from 11 participating schools were recognized at the last meeting of the board of Supervisors for their effort.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

December 18, 1983 - A successful bid for a weather station at Stennis Airport could result in 40 new jobs that would generate $2 million a year in revenue for Hancock County, Port and Harbor Commission Director James C. DeBlanc said Thursday. The Board of Supervisors gave the go-ahead to the commission to make a bid for an automated flight service station facility and to expend $9,600 for the project.

-Saturday morning 183 men, women and children ranging from seven years of age to 63 braved bone-chilling winter temperatures to participate in Hancock Bank's Third Annual Winter Run. The run, administered by the Gulf Coast Running Club, began on Scenic Drive in Pass Christian and moved west along the drive and US-90 across the Bay of St. Louis bridge then south along Beach Boulevard in the Bay where it ended at The Dock of the Bay.

FORTY YEARS AGO

December 12, 1963 - Hancock County's personal property assessment swelled to the amount of $85,425 as the result of three days' checking of contractor equipment on construction projects at Mississippi Test Operations. "That's a fair amount but it's not nearly what we're going to get," reported Tax Assessor George Heitzmann, who

Mary Acker who now lives in Pearlinton is a former citizen of the Lost Community of Gainesville.

Thousands of people were displaced when NASA decided to locate their new rocket engine testing facility in Hancock County. They took over about a third of the county. Lots of older citizens just up and died, not about to make the move from the homes their families had known for generations.

The families were typically large in the rural communities stretching along the Pearl River, close knit both within the family unit and within the community. It was an existence largely untouched by the outside world. Forty years later the former residents still remember their lives in the lost communities as magical times. Most say they would return in a minute to their former homes if they got half a chance.

The town of Gainesville was moved first, to make said Mary Acker of Pearlinton, formally of Gainesville, as she set a table with bowls of gumbo, rice, Swiss steak, greens, cornbread, potato salad and home-made apple pie, and poured the sweet iced tea.

"You'll have a little something to eat with me," she said and handed me a plate. "Just make yourself at home."

It was real southern hospitality, the way I remembered it as a kid and I told her so.

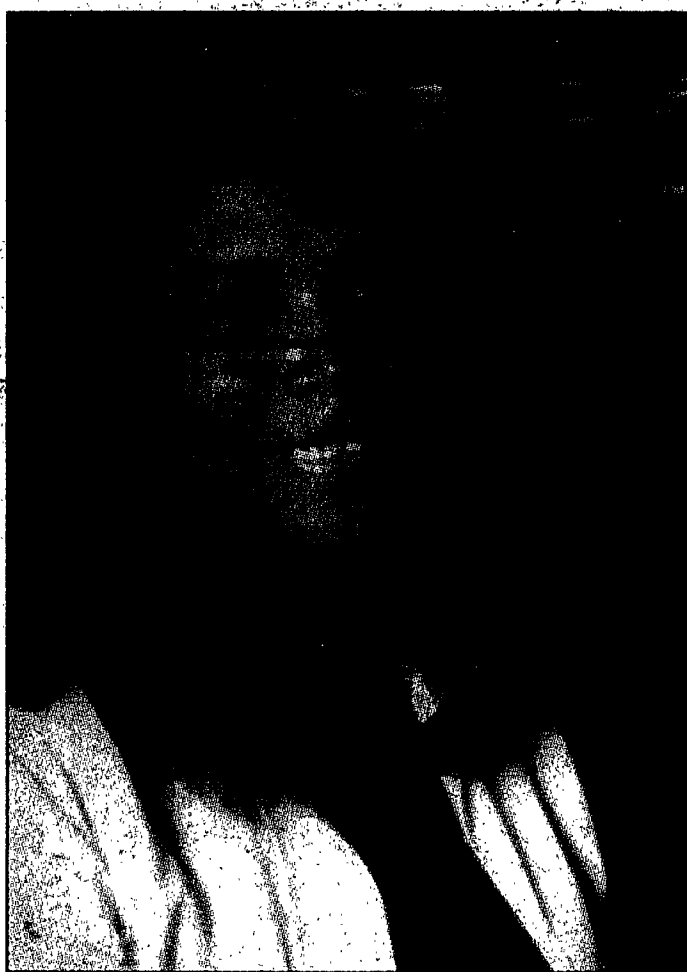

"I was a grown woman before I realized that you could go to people's houses, and they wouldn't offer you anything to eat or drink," I said.

Acker was born the Mary Acker as a young woman. Acker, like many of the residents along the Pearl River in Hancock County lived a simple life where people got along and helped their neighbors.

Three beauties represent everything a prize rose should be

AARS winning roses are all judged on 15 key gardening characteristics including disease resistance, hardiness, color, form, flowering effect, fragrance, vigor and novelty. Winners must perform exceptionally well over a two-year period in numerous test gardens throughout the United States.

The cold holiday season seems like a good time to give everyone a glimpse of the new All-America Rose Selection winners that will be at garden centers in just a few weeks.

This year's trio is just what you would expect award-winning roses to be:

Beautiful, fragrant, disease-resistant and easy to maintain. Day Breaker, Honey Perfume and Memorial Day have outperformed the field to be awarded the coveted AARS honor.

Among the best new roses for the next growing season, this trio promises to sparkle in any garden and stir up emotions as rose lovers renew their affair with this gem of all flowers.

DAY BREAKER

Day Breaker is an upright, bushy floribunda with bright, multi-shade blooms in yellow, blending to pink and apricot. From pointed and shapely buds, its spiraled blooms grow to between 4 and 4 1/2 inches in diameter, with 30 to 35 petals per flower, each nestled among dark, glossy green foliage on a plant that reaches a medium height.

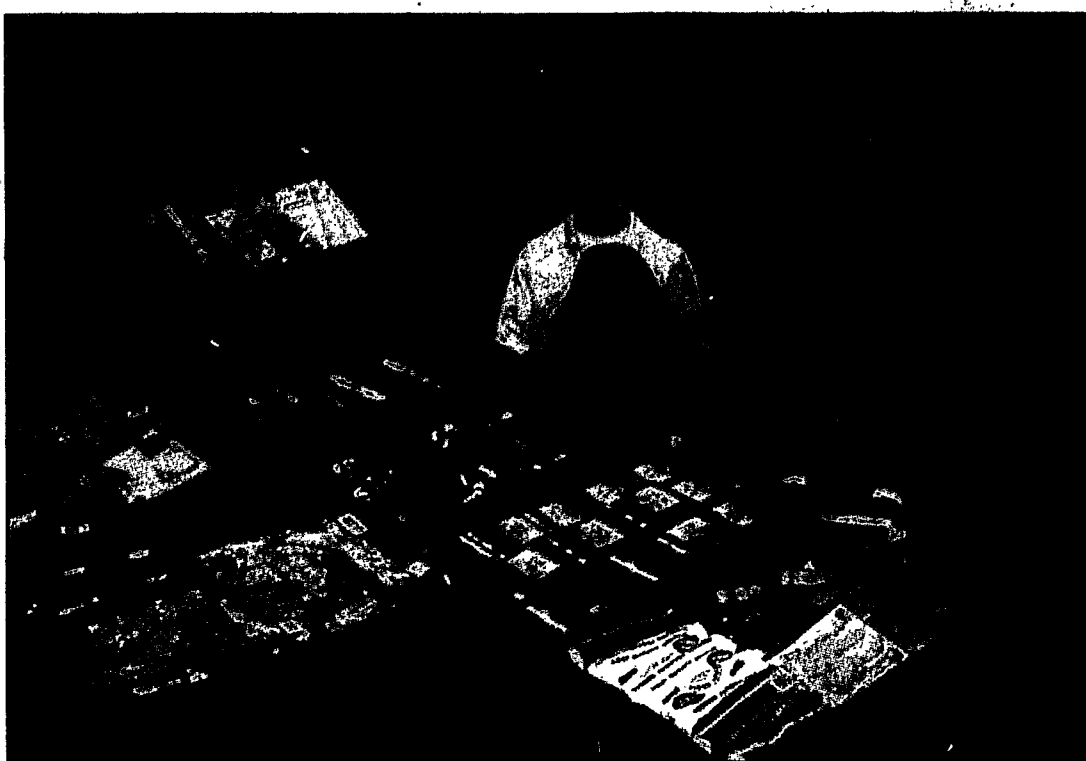

Day Breaker is an awakening of the senses, not only for its exquisite beauty, but also for its sharp, moderate tea fragrance. Day Breaker truly earns its floribunda classification with its brilliantly colorful, long-lasting clusters of flowers in a hardy, continuous bloom.

Christmas by the truckload

Book signing planned at D-Day Museum

Author to sign 'The American St. Nick' Jan. 10 in New Orleans

Author and ESPN director Peter Lion will discuss his new book, "The American St. Nick," at The National D-Day Museum on Jan. 10 from 1 to 2 p.m.

"The American St. Nick" is based on the true story of the 28th Infantry Division during World War II, this book tells the incredible story of the Division's compassion for the war-weary town of Wiltz, Luxembourg and how it forever changed her people. "The American St. Nick" includes 14 pages of photos.

Author Peter Lion became interested in the story of the American St. Nicolas through his association with the family of Cpl. Richard Brookins, who portrayed the first American St. Nicolas.

"I first heard the story of the American St. Nicolas in 1994," explains Peter. "My friend, Terry Brookins, was preparing for a trip to Europe with his family. 'We're heading over to Luxembourg with my dad,' Terry told me. 'He's going over to do this thing in a town called Wiltz.'"

He then told me this remarkable story about his father. I fell in love with the story and "fearing the day when it might no longer be remembered," committed myself to share it with the world."

This presentation is free to the public.

SSC graduates receive AP Scholar awards

St. Stanislaus 2003 graduates Jess Brown and Nathan Sison have been designated as AP Scholars by the College Board, according to Brother Ronald Hingle, SSC, principal.

The College Board's Advanced Placement Program offers students the opportunity to take challenging college-level courses while still in high school, and to receive college credit, advanced placement, or both for successful performance on the AP Exams. Almost 15 percent of the more than one million high school students in more than 14,000 secondary schools who took AP Exams performed at a sufficiently high level to merit the recognition of AP Scholar.

Jesse and Nathan took AP Exams in May 2003 after completing challenging college-level courses at SSC.

The College Board's designation of these young men as AP Scholars indicates that they have received grades of 3 or higher on three or more AP Exams on full-year courses.

St. Stanislaus College is a Catholic residency and day school for young men in grades sixth through 12th.

The school fosters character formation and integrates faith development within a curriculum which is primarily college preparatory.

Gingerbread houses highlight Celebrate the Season at CBM

Gingerbread houses, Santa Claus, and decorated trees highlighted the Celebrate the Season holiday activities at Charles B. Murphy Elementary School and the Pearlington Public Library last week.

Children and adults were asked to make and decorate a gingerbread house for a gingerbread house decorating contest. The contest was judged by Kay Erwin, Rachel Davis, Cindy Havard, Ashley Necaise, Roger Woods and Marguerite Riehm.

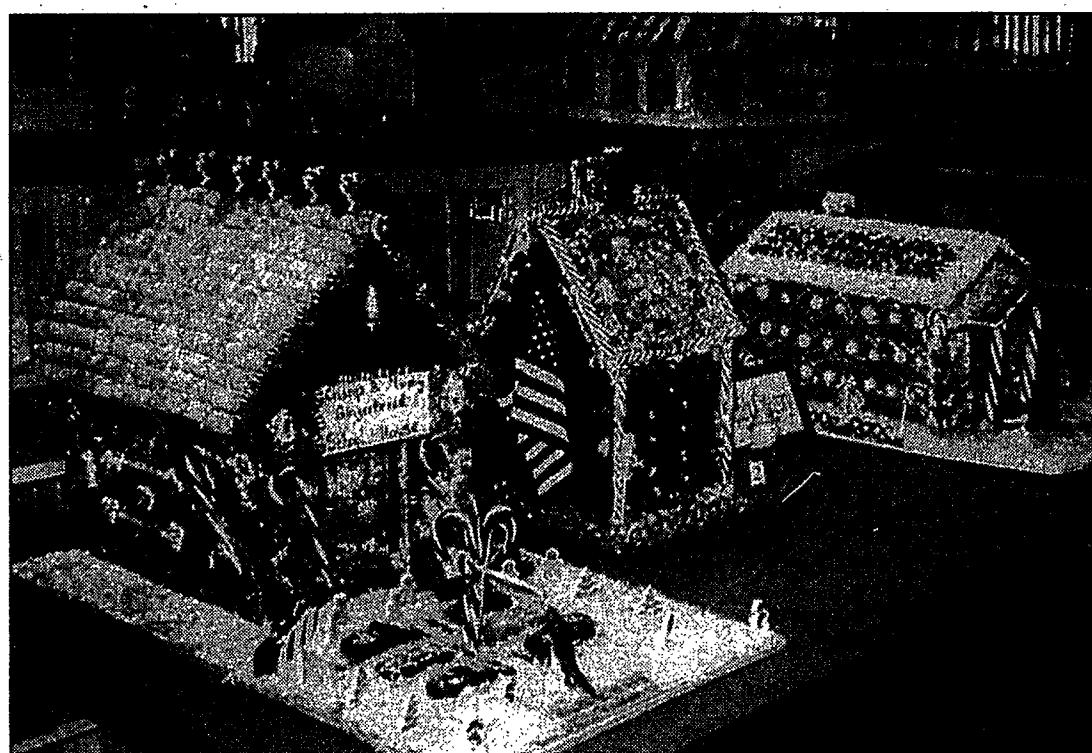

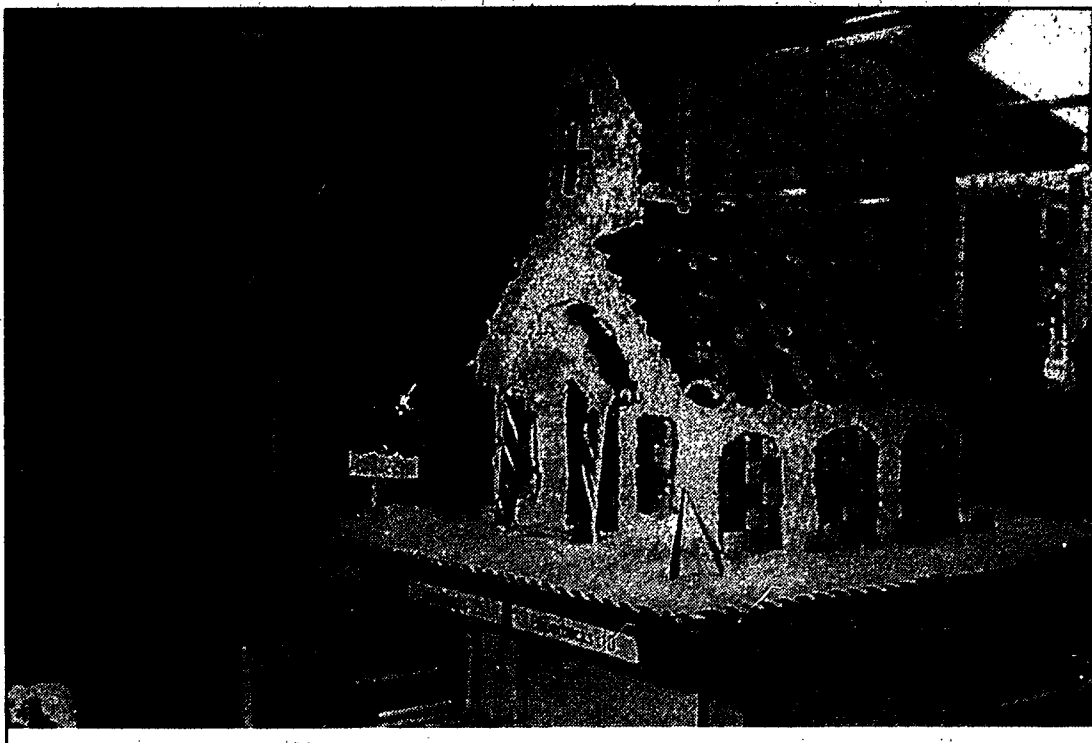

In the individual division, Ryan Jordan was the first place winner, with Marty Ritter placing second and Chelsea Dawsey third.

In the group division, the winners were Wade and Charles Graves, first place; Ashley Swanson and Darrian Elliot second place; and Marco Conerly and Vrittney Drake, third place.

In the family division, the first place winner was Brad Hill and family. There was a tie for second place with Trey Vernaci and family and Michael Necaise and family. The third place ribbon was captured by Selby Stoufflet and family.

In the Class division, the first place ribbon went to Brandy Perez in the gifted class. Sheryl Destarkey in the kindergarten class placed second, and Alison McGraw in the first grade was the third place winner.

Trees on display in the library were decorated by each class, kindergarten through fifth grade, of Charles B. Murphy Elementary School.

A TOTAL OF 24 entries were received in the Gingerbread House decorating contest at the Pearlington Public Library. First, second and third place ribbons were awarded in four divisions. The gingerbread church above was made by Brad Hill and family, and was the first place winner in the family division. In the picture below, the winners were, from left, Trey Vernaci and family, tied for second place; Michael Necaise and family, tied for second; and Selby Stoufflet and family, third place. The event also included storytelling by Tommy Wiltz, a visit from Santa Claus and Christmas caroling.

The Bay St. Louis Little Theatre will present its production of "The Piano Lesson," a Pulitzer Prize-winning drama by August Wilson on Jan. 9-11 and 16-18.

Boy Willie dreams of buying the same Mississippi land that his family had worked as slaves, and plans to sell the family's antique piano to raise the cash he needs. His sister Berniece refuses to sell, clinging to the piano as a part of the family legacy. The family dilemma is the real "piano lesson," a reminder that blacks are often deprived both of the symbols of their past and of opportunity in the present.

August Wilson is known for his spellbinding dramas including his first Pulitzer Prize-winning play Fences, and Ma Rainey's Black Bottom.

The cast includes Metric

Dockins as Doaker, Stefen King as Boy Willie, John Ragins as Lyman, Judy Verrett as Berniece, Imani Joseph as Maretha, Allen Jenkins as Avery, Harold Wilkerson as Wining Boy and Shelly Hazeur as Grace.

Others involved are Charles Joseph, director; Rebecca Hardin, assistant director; and Scott Darrah, producer.

Show times are at 8 p.m. on Fridays and Saturdays and at 2 p.m. on Sunday, Jan. 18. Admission is $12 for adults, $10 for seniors and $7 for students 17 and below.

The Bay St. Louis Little Theatre, located at 301 Boardman Ave., has a general seating policy.

Tickets will be available at the door on the night of the show, and doors open at 7:30 p.m.

For more information, visit www.bsllt.org or call the theater at 228-467-2587.

'Chairish' fund-raiser continues at Bay St. Louis Little Theatre

Bay St. Louis Little Theatre members are urging the community to "purchase" chairs in the historic building on Boardman Avenue as part of its "Chairish Your Theater" fund-raiser.

"Buy a seat in honor or memory of someone special," said Claire Haun, a board member. "Your chair will be identified by an elegant brass name plaque."

Purchasing a chair, which costs $150, is the first of several fund-raisers for the theater.

Other fund-raisers include CPR instruction for Heart Month in February and a silent auction where the community may bid on some of the theater's original chairs, which will be decorated by local artists.

These chairs will be replaced by new seats the theater recently claimed.

In order to receive a grant of $60,000 from the Mississippi Arts Commission, theater members must raise $40,000 in matching funds through these fund-raisers.

To purchase a seat in the theater or for more details, contact Claire Haun at 228-463-9793 or Sandy Reese at 228-466-2728.

spent two days last week on the site and one day this week along with R.E.L. Gentry of the State Tax Commission who has been assigned here to assist with assessment chores.

Notices were sent Tuesday to about 30 subcontractors at MTO telling them to appear in the assessor's office at the Hancock County Courthouse on January 7 and 8 with lists of their equipment. Notices were (also) mailed to all 311 business places in Hancock County telling them to record their personal property for assessment purposes.

Deeds to 16.51 acres of the land in the Blue Meadow Road area to be used for a new high school have been delivered to Sam L. Favre, board attorney, told trustees of the Bay St. Louis Municipal Separate School System at Monday night's monthly meeting.

FIFTY YEARS AGO
December 18, 1953 - Rev. W.B. Jones, 88, of Logtown was saved from his house flaming from a gas exploding heater, here yesterday by Austin Baxter who happened to pass on the road. Rev. Jones is in the Picayune Hospital today.

A late report from the hospital to The Echo indicated that the pastor of the Logtown Methodist Church was feeling better.

A neighbor, Miller, heard the explosion, saw the fire and summoned neighbors, who rushed to put out the fire. Logtown has no volunteer or paid fire department.

Baxter, who was on his way to work at Sam Whitfield's, saw the flaming house. He rushed in the house and pulled Rev. Jones from the flaming structure.

Two young girls from Georgia, one 17 and the other 22, of Logansville, Georgia, are spending five days in the county jail as the result of too much drinking Logtown last Saturday.

They both pled guilty of public drunkenness, and Judge Nelius fined each $5, or five days in jail. The girls had spent all their money at Shorty's Bar and they had to take the five days.

Province of the Divine Word was the guest speaker at the Bay St. Louis Rotary Club Wednesday.

Father Eckert, told his listeners that some 23 years ago a small building was erected in the woods at the edge of Bay St. Louis and this was the beginning of St. Augustine Seminary here. He told of the long, hard struggle they had to build it into the magnificent institution it is today.

Father Eckert said the purpose of the Seminary is to educate colored priests and those who have qualified and have been ordained have done a wonderful job bringing the message of the Gospel to members of their race.

Fryer, Day Breaker is being introduced by Edmunds' Roses of Wilsonville, Ore.

HONEY PERFUME

This second award-winning floribunda for 2004, Honey Perfume, is one "sweet" honey of a rose that is exceptionally rich in color and a knockout performer. Its bright apricot-yellow blooms grow in large, open clusters with fast repeat on an upright, well-branched plant. Flowers are 4 inches in diameter with 25 to 30 petals each on 12- to 14-inch-long stems. Honey Perfume grows to about 3 feet high and 2 feet wide and features dark green, glossy foliage.

This classic floribunda has a great spicy scent and exhibits very good resistance to disease, including rust and powdery mildew. Honey Perfume was hybridized by Keith Zary and is being introduced by Jackson and Perkins Wholesale Inc. of Medford, Ore.

MEMORIAL DAY

Like the holiday of the same name, Memorial Day is truly worth celebrating. Expertly representing the most popular class of modern roses -- hybrid tea -- this medium-tall, upright, bushy variety features very large, full, spiraled blooms with more than 50 petals per flower.

Evolving from pointed and egg-shaped buds, Memorial Day's clear pink flowers are accented with a lavender wash and grow to up to 5 inches in diameter. Its long cutting stems are beautifully clothed with rich green foliage to accent the large blossoms.

With its classic, strong damask rose fragrance, a single Memorial Day rose can fill an entire room with sweet perfume. A vigorous and productive performer, Memorial Day is highly disease resistant and especially loves hot weather, particularly for unfurling its commemorative rose petals. It makes a great, easy-to-grow addition to any garden.

Memorial Day's hybridizer is Tom Carruth, and it is being introduced by Weeks Wholesale Rose Grower of Upland, Calif.

AARS winning roses are all judged on 15 key gardening characteristics including disease resistance, hardiness, color, form, flowering effect, fragrance, vigor and novelty. Winners must perform exceptionally well over a two-year period in numerous test gardens throughout the United States.

Day Breaker, Honey Perfume and Memorial Day will be available for the 2004 planting season at local garden centers.

Facts About The BIBLE BY JOHN LEHT

THE CAVE OF ADULLAM---DAVID'S HIDEAWAY IN THE WILDERNESS!... THE TOWN OF ADULLAM, IN THE TERRITORY OF JUDAH, WAS IN EXISTENCE A LONG TIME. IT WAS INHABITED BY CANAANITES AS EARLY AS THE TIME OF JACOB (GEN. 38:1,2). A PETTY KING RULED AT THE TIME OF JOSHUA'S CONQUEST. IT WAS ALSO FORTIFIED BY KING REHOBOAM (I CHRON. 11:7) AND CONTINUED TO FLOURISH IN THE TIME OF MICAH THE PROPHET. ITS CLAIM TO FAME WAS ITS SECLUDED HIDEOUT FOR DAVID WHEN HE NEEDED A HEADQUARTERS THAT WOULD BE SAFE FROM KING SAUL. IN FACT, IT WAS HERE THAT DAVID WAS JOINED BY MOST OF HIS FOLLOWERS, INCLUDING HIS FATHER AND HIS BROTHERS.

Xmas is stronger than ever

The ACLU et al. seem hellbent on secularizing all that is Godly, especially Christmas, even though separation of Church and state is nowhere in the U.S. Constitution. So paranoid are some strong believers that they see the hand of secularism even where it is not. For instance, Xmas.

Hesitant, doubtful, half-stepping remarks are heard here and there about Xmas, to the effect that it surely detracts from the great birthday. However, not to worry. Xmas is as strong, if not stronger than the word Christmas.

For one thing, Xmas is more thought-provocative in symbolism, dating back to the Roman catacombs themselves. X, you see, is the capital form of the Greek letter of the alphabet, and is the first letter of the name Xristos (the Latin Christus) which means Christ.

Another abbreviation is the overlaid XR (called Kai Ro), the first two letters of the name Xristos. For our present discussion, we need only the X.

The other feature of Xmas is that it stirs far more talk about the big birthday than Christmas does. Even after all these years, relatively few people seem to know the origins of Xmas. Hence, many rich discussions.

If the ACLU crowd wanted to publicize Christmas, they could hardly do a better job than they are doing right now. If the hills are alive with the sound of music, they are even more alive with newly awakened, angry believers.

Perhaps we should hire the ACLU to publicize Xmas and all things Godly. But, fortunately, we are the beneficiaries of serendipity. We don't have to hire them. They are volunteering and doing it totally free of charge.

As the saying goes in the world of business, we believers could never afford the dollar worth of Xmas and other Godly publicity which is pouring out all over the world because of the secularists' spitting of vitriol.

More power to you, ACLU and other secularists who are so avidly promoting the Godly way of peace! After many centuries of unchallenged Xmas celebrations, we have not managed to herald the Message as you have. We believers are so pleased to have you as our unabashed publicists. It is well known that we do not have sufficient dollars to begin to recompense you for your able, devoted and dogged exposure of the Message and his Message.

For all your efforts to the contrary, you secularists are stirring all of us up. That's right. Not just Christians, who are a given. Also many Jews and Muslims who want Christmas along with Hanukkah and

by Father Jerome LeDoux, SVD

of course. The ancient Jews tried that, and failed miserably. Some present-day nations in the Middle East are trying it, with varying degrees of misery and failure, often fanning into war. The last thing we need is a jihad. In fact, we don't want any type of conflict. We seek peace to all, the ideal of the message of the season.

Speaking of message, sometimes the process or the journey toward reaching the message is itself the message. Not so Xmas. The Message is the Journey: "I am the Way and the Truth and the Life. Who is the Way and the Truth and the Life?"

With its dragging of the Message of Church and state into the picture, the creche simply represents peace, without saying anything explicit about the great Message himself. Secular forces are bringing out the Kwanzaa.

That is right. They want all three to be celebrated, and you are very ably helping us to keep the celebration alive. Now go figure, secularists!

There are quite obviously only two main options in the world today. We will either be alive with peace, or we will be fractured, divided, alienated and extremely disgruntled with all kinds of hostility and death.

We Americans do not want a theocracy, and failed miserably.

Some present-day nations in the Middle East are trying it, with varying degrees of misery and failure, often fanning into war. The last thing we need is a jihad. In fact, we don't want any type of conflict. We seek peace to all, the ideal of the message of the season.

Speaking of message, sometimes the process or the journey toward reaching the message is itself the message. Not so Xmas. The Message is the Journey: "I am the Way and the Truth and the Life. Who is the Way and the Truth and the Life?"

With its dragging of the Message of Church and state into the picture, the creche simply represents peace, without saying anything explicit about the great Message himself. Secular forces are bringing out the Message.

To the shame of us believers, secular forces from without are doing a far better job than we are of awakening the faith and the religious sensibilities of both ourselves and the world at large.

For our part, we are entirely too much caught up perennially in the venal, commercial hype of merchants who chant the mantra of Xmas, but pursue with might and main the paper trail of money: green, plastic or whatever.

If a tiny fraction of the time, effort, zeal and perseverance we dedicate to Xmas shopping, cleaning, preparation for cooking, and travel would be focused on the Message, what a wonderful world it would be.

Despite their stoutest efforts, the ACLU and other secularists are not about to destroy our Xmas Message from without, because everything they do is proclaiming more and more Who is the way and the truth and the life.

It is we believers who are allowing the Xmas Message to be diminished, perverted and neutralized from within. Are we in lockstep with the greedy merchants, or are we getting the Message for ourselves and we say Merry/Blessed Xmas, Happy Hanukkah, Happy Kwanzaa or their equivalent, it all boils down to the Message and his peace.

Rejoice

The "Word" for the Week Resolutions or repentance?

Dennis J. Prutow • Box 303, Sterling, KS 67579

The New Year is a time for resolutions; resolutions to eat less, stop smoking, quell anger, make more money, get better grades, etc., etc. But why do so many New Year's resolutions fall by the wayside unfulfilled?

Let's face it, New Year's resolutions are a human endeavor. The first day of a new year gives no more strength to accomplish the resolve than any other day of the year.

Generally speaking, help is needed to accomplish change. So there are hundreds of programs which offer help to people who want to eat less, stop smoking, and get ahead. Now we learn two things from all this.

First, a lot of people acknowledge the need for change in their lives. Second, there is massive understanding for the need of help to change. The teachings of the Bible give us direction. When the Bible speaks of change, it never speaks of making resolutions. The Bible speaks of repentance.

The word repentance means a change of mind, a change in thinking. This change in thinking is not something a person does on his or her own.

Real repentance is a gift of God. It is God opening the heart and mind (Acts 16:14) and granting the ability to turn around and act differently (Acts 11:18).

So if you think you need help in turning around, you are right. You need help from God. God needs to change your thinking!

God needs to change you on the inside. It really is the best for you if God brings you into line with his thinking. As He promised, "I will put my Spirit within you and cause you to walk in my statutes" (Ezekiel 36:27). Do you think you need change? Ask God to fill you with His Holy Spirit. Ask for the gift of "repentance without regret, leading to salvation" (2 Corinthians 7:10).

Acker -- Lost Communities

Thompson and Bessie Dees Thompson of Cyber. Her mother died when Acker was only 2-years-old, so a lot of her raising was done by her grandparents, Alice and Michael Dees, and by her Aunt Florence, she said.

She was raised on a farm picking cotton and pulling corn and eating fresh vegetables grown in Alice's garden, such as onions, squash, cabbage, greens, beans and peas. Church was a big part of life and still is for Acker, who sings in several church choirs. She learned how to sew and still can whip up a whole wardrobe for a grandchild who needs it.

She attended school in a one-room building for grades first through eighth. Life went on in the usual fashion until Ozzie Oliver brought Floyd Acker over with him from Gainesville when he came courting his girlfriend up the hill from the Dees house. On the way home their car broke down and the men came over to the Dees house for help.

After that, Floyd started to call on Mary, much to the disapproval of Mary's grandfather, Dees. After all, Floyd was 20 years her senior, and he was handsome, Mary said. It was not too long after that that Mary came up missing. Her grandfather went to Floyd's home in Gainesville with a shotgun, but Mary and Floyd had run off to New Orleans and gotten married.

They came home a week later, settled in Floyd's uncle's house and started a family.

Later they would move into Floyd's daddy's house when he passed away. All but two of their 12 children were born in Gainesville, with number 11 being born just three weeks after the family was forced to move to make way for the Space Center.

The Gainesville First Baptist Church was within walking distance to the Acker's home and Mary and the children spent a great deal of time there.

"Where we stayed was up in the middle to two branches," said Mary. "And when the water was up we had to use a foot log (a board walk across the water) to get out and in the winter it was so slippery you'd nearly fall down."

When the old town was moved, the church had to be left behind, replaced by the New Hope Baptist Church in Pearlinton. For a time, services were held in a school building that could be moved from Gainesville. Mary has only been back to her home once since Stennis moved in to go to the visitors center.

"I cried when I went back up there and saw the steeple (to the church) torn off," said Mary. "They just tore off the steeple and made a warehouse out of it, out of our church."

The Gainesville cemetery was also moved, though cemeteries in other towns remain intact.

While we talked a steady stream of children and grandchildren dropped by to visit — grandchildren being dropped off and picked up as their parents ran errands. A sign in the kitchen window said "Keep me going Lord."

"We got married on a Monday and my grandfather gave us a little pig and from there we had lots of hogs," said Mary. "We raised hogs and had gardens and a big yard with three pecan trees and each one had a different kind of pecans. In the winter time, the frost would be so pretty and white on the grass and sometime we would get a little snow. I liked it there."

"We lived in a big old house — you know, a long time ago people didn't have living rooms, they had a front room," she said. "There was no ice boxes but the kind you put ice in."

"It was sad when we had to move because we had all those little children, and we had to find a house," Mary said. "We found a small one in Logtown and moved it to Pearlinton. The big house was sold to the government and the money divided among my husband's eight siblings."

Floyd Acker, Mary's husband and the father of her twelve children "stole" Mary away when she was just 15, married her and moved her to his home in Gainesville. "He was handsome," Mary said.

"Did I tell you that there were two stores in Gainesville — little grocery stores," Mary said. "I imagine it would be beautiful there now and some of the children would have been going to Picayune to work ... isn't it funny ... now the Picayune people are going to Gainesville to work. They tricked us."

Advertising is an investment in the success of your business. Every business has some kind of competition, either within the town, nearby city or from mail order firms. Your potential customers are being courted by your competitors. If you do not invite those customers to do business with you, they are likely to forget you and buy elsewhere. It is not uncommon for consumers to switch their trading from one store to another. Advertising helps to keep old customers and equally as important, make new ones.

Our community is constantly growing which means that potential customers are moving into the market area all the time. Advertising gives these newcomers a reason to visit your store.

Most businesses budget for their advertising expenses just as they do for other necessities such as rent, phones, etc. Smart business people realize that advertising is imperative to keep their business growing.

Another reason to advertise is that advertising is news! You profit by telling our readers what is new in your store. Through advertising, you can let a wide audience know the product lines you carry, the quality of your merchandise, the completeness of your service and the character of your store.

If you have something to sell, then you have something to advertise. When you have nothing to advertise, you are out of business. Advertising is designed to build your business and works best when it is repeated regularly. Consistent advertising pays off!

Now that you know some of the reasons to advertise, you're probably wondering how you can advertise most effectively. Surveys show that ads in local newspapers have more impact than in any other medium. The Sea Coast Echo goes into the majority of the homes in Hancock County. The Sea Coast Echo is full of interesting reading, it is a part of our community. People like to read about people and The Sea Coast Echo is full of pictures and stories about local people. The most important reason to advertise in The Sea Coast Echo is that our readers are your customers.

If you're looking for the best advertising value for your money, then you should contact the advertising department at The Sea Coast Echo. One of our advertising representatives will be happy to discuss the many advertising options offered by The Sea Coast Echo. For more information you may call 467-5474, Monday through Friday 8am to 5pm, or stop by our office at 124 Court Street, Bay St. Louis.

PUBLIC NOTICE OF APPLICATION FOR COASTAL WETLANDS PERMIT AND WATER QUALITY CERTIFICATION
Royal D'Arville Development, Inc. has filed an application with the Department of Marine Resources requesting permission to conduct regulated activities under the provision of the Coastal Wetlands Protection Act, Title 49, Chapter 27, Mississippi Code of 1972 at Boney Ave. and Bayshore Dr. on the north shore of the Back Bay of Biloxi, D'Arville, Harrison County, Mississippi.
The applicant is requesting permission to construct a hotel and casino facility on the north shore of the Back Bay of Biloxi just west of the I-10 Bridge. The proposed project will be performed in navigable waters and shade approximately 3.22 acres of waterbottoms. Structures include the permanent mooring of a 350-foot-long by 285-foot-wide floating casino barge, a concrete pier 210 feet long by 15 feet wide, 450 feet of steel bulkhead, and four 35-foot diameter mooring caissons. Also proposed over open water is an entrance ramp leading to the casino barge and a portion of the 500-room hotel/2,500-space multi-level parking structure. Land based structures include a porte cochere, 425-space surface parking area, and the remaining portion of the hotel/parking structure. A fringe of marsh vegetation that runs parallel to the shoreline for approximately 40 feet will be impacted by the development. To compensate for this loss, the applicant plans to enhance approximately 1.2 acres of adjacent vegetated wetlands. Flood improvements to Boney Ave., the I-10/Rodriguez St. interchange, and Bayshore Dr. are also proposed. The applicant also plans to construct a sewer lift station and a 6-inch force main from the casino to the D'Arville sewage treatment plant. In compliance with Section 401 of the Federal Water Pollution Control Act (33 U.S.C. 1251, 1341), as amended by PL 95-217, Royal D'Arville Development, Inc. will request certification from the Office of Pollution Control that the above mentioned activity will be in compliance with applicable provisions of Section 301 (33 U.S.C. 1311), Section 302 (33 U.S.C. 1312), Section 303 (33 U.S.C. 1313), Section 306 (U.S.C. 1316), and Section 307 (U.S.C. 1317) of the Act and appropriate requirements of the State Law.
A public hearing will be held on Monday, December 29, 2003, at 6:00 p.m. in the auditorium of the Bolton Building, located at 1141 Bayview Ave. Biloxi, Mississippi 39530. Written comments will be accepted by the Mississippi Department of Marine Resources, 1141 Bayview Avenue, Suite 101, Biloxi, Mississippi 39530, and the Office of Pollution Control, Post Office Box 10385, Jackson, Mississippi 39208-0385, until 6:00 p.m. on the day January 5, 2004.

STATE OF MISSISSIPPI
COUNTY OF HANCOCK
TRUSTEE NOTICE OF SALE
WHEREAS, on the 28th day of February, 2003, CASH C. MARTIN, executed a certain Purchase Money Land Deed of Trust to FRANK P. WITTMANN, IV, as Trustee, for the benefit of the ESTATE OF PETER H. SWARTWOOD, deceased, which Deed of Trust is recorded in the office of the Chancery Clerk of Hancock County, Mississippi, in the Records of Mortgages and Deeds of Trust on Land in Book 746 at page 500.
WHEREAS, default having been made in the terms and conditions of said Deed of Trust and the entire outstanding debt secured thereby having been declared to be due and payable in accordance with the terms and conditions of said deed of trust and the legal owner and holder of said indebtedness and deed of trust having requested the undersigned trustee to execute the trusts and sell said land and property, or as much thereof as may be necessary in accordance with the terms and conditions of said Deed of Trust and for the purposes of raising the sums due thereunder, together with attorney's fees, Trustee's fees, and expenses of sale.
NOW, THEREFORE, I, FRANK P. WITTMANN, IV, Trustee, will on the 29th day of December, 2003, offer for sale at public outcry and sell within legal hours, being between the hours of 11:00 a.m. and 4:00 p.m., at the North front door of the County Courthouse of Hancock County, at Bay St. Louis, Mississippi, to the highest bidder for cash, the following property, or so much as may be necessary to raise all sums due, situated in Hancock County, Mississippi and being more particularly described as follows:
The East one half (1/2) of iron rebar at the SW corner of the SE 1/4 of the SW 1/4, Section 24, Township 7 South, Range 15 West, Hancock County, Mississippi; and run thence North 00 degrees 11 minutes 32 seconds West along the eastern boundary of a private road for 345.20 feet; thence East for 428.00 feet; thence North for 94.5 feet; thence East for 76.50 feet; thence South 1 degree 21 minutes 43 seconds West for 425.26 feet to the South boundary of the above described Section 24; thence South 89 degrees 10 minutes 39 seconds West along said Section boundary for 490.24 feet to the POINT OF BEGINNING. Being part of the SE 1/4 of the SW 1/4, Section 24, Township 7 South, Range 15 West, Hancock County, Mississippi.
Together with and subject to a perpetual easement for roadway ingress and egress on and over a parcel described as: The Point of Beginning on an iron rebar located at the SE corner of the SW 1/4 of the SW 1/4 of Section 24, Township 7 South, Range 15 West, Hancock County, Mississippi, and run thence North 00 degrees 11 minutes 32 seconds West along the East boundary of said SW 1/4 of SW 1/4 for 345.20 feet; thence West for 30.0 feet; thence South 00 degrees 11 minutes 32 seconds East for 346.20 feet to the South boundary of said Section 24; thence East for 30.0 feet to the Point of Beginning. Located along the eastern boundary of the SW 1/4 of the SW 1/4, in the Section 24, Township 7 South, Range 15 West, Hancock County, Mississippi.
LESS AND EXCEPT that parcel conveyed to Whitney O. Blanchard, Jr. and Mary E. Blanchard, by Deed of record in Deed Book 88, page 360, et seq., in aforesaid office of the Chancery Clerk of Hancock County, Mississippi. Title to said property is believed to be good, but I will convey only such title as is vested in me as Trustee under said Deed of Trust, and the sale will be made subject to any prior Deeds of Trust and liens of records. SIGNED AND POSTED, this 5th day of December, 2003.

PUBLIC NOTICE OF REVISED APPLICATION FOR COASTAL WETLANDS PERMIT AND WATER QUALITY CERTIFICATION
Hancock County Board of Supervisors has filed an application with the Department of Marine Resources requesting permission to conduct regulated activities under the provision of the Coastal Wetlands Protection Act, Title 49, Chapter 27, Mississippi Code of 1972, adjacent to Point Clear on the Mississippi Sound, Waveland, Hancock County, Mississippi.
The applicant has revised an original request for a jetty and breakwater structure south of the Bayou Caddy entrance channel and now requests permission to construct a concrete rubble breakwater structure approximately 1,000 feet offshore from Point Clear, Hancock County, Mississippi. This structure will serve to protect the existing shoreline from further erosion due to wave action, to protect the Bayou Caddy entrance channel from siltation, and it will enhance fishing in the vicinity of the structure by creating a hard surface reef. The breakwater will be 1,200 feet in length and 30 feet in width at the base of the structure. In compliance with Section 401 of the Federal Water Pollution Control Act (33 U.S.C. 1251, 1341), as amended by PL 95-217, the applicant will request certification from the Office of Pollution Control that the above mentioned activity will be in compliance with applicable provisions of Section 301 (33 U.S.C. 1311), Section 302 (33 U.S.C. 1312), Section 303 (U.S.C. 1313), Section 306 (U.S.C. 1316), and Section 307 (U.S.C. 1317) of the Act and appropriate requirements of the State Law.
Any person wishing to make comments or objections to the proposed regulated activity must submit those comments in writing to the Department of Marine Resources at 1141 Bayview Avenue, Biloxi, Mississippi 39530 and the Office of Pollution Control, Post Office Box 10385, Jackson, Mississippi 39205 before 1:00 p.m. on the day January 12, 2004.

HERE'S TO A SAFE AND Happy New Year!

Enjoy your holiday celebrations with family and friends, but please remember, drinking and driving don't mix.

Plan to have a designated driver, or arrange for other transportation, if you are going to drink.

Don't get into a car if you think the driver has been drinking - arrange another ride for both of you.

If you see someone driving drunk, report it immediately - you may be saving a life.

Remember, even one alcoholic drink can affect judgement and coordination.

Make sure you eat something before drinking. Never drink on an empty stomach.

If you are giving a party, offer your guests the alternative of nonalcoholic beverages.

Don't let anyone who appears intoxicated drive. Arrange for other transportation.

Above all, use common sense and enjoy your holidays.

Amanda Bynes

Checking in with Amanda Bynes

By Kate O'Hare

Jennie Garth probably can take it as a compliment when Amanda Bynes, her co-star in The WB Network's Friday-night comedy "What I Like About You," says, "There's nothing better than working with good people, because they make you look good. You have to meet their level of goodness, otherwise you just look dumb."

In the summer of 2002, just before she started work on her WB series, Bynes filmed the 2003 feature comedy "What a Girl Wants," starring outstanding actors such as Colin Firth, Eileen Atkins and Jonathan Pryce.

"It was such a great experience," Bynes says. "When I was doing a scene, it taught me to just be real, have a conversation. It was an acting class without ever verbalizing what it was. I was like, 'I'm a sponge. I'm going to learn everything I can.'"

In "What I Like About You," Bynes plays the youngest of two sisters who, when their father has to go to Japan, moves in with her adult sister (Garth) in Manhattan. Although her show is filmed in Los Angeles, Bynes has an enduring affection for the Big Apple.

"I love New York," she says. "I've gone there a lot. When I was on Nickelodeon, we'd have upfronts there, various things. I wouldn't be surprised if I did theater out there one day."

Bynes already is contemplating college there. "I want to go to NYU," she says.

NYU has the renowned Tisch School of the Arts, but Bynes won't necessarily jump right into acting classes.

"I don't think I would study theater at first," she says. "I might take a couple of classes, but ... I've been working for 10 years. I've learned things that you learn by working on a show. I want to absolutely study acting and get as good as I can, but with each role I take, each new thing I do, I'll study and get better."

Birthplace: Thousand Oaks, Calif.

Birthdate: April 3, 1986

Hobbies: Drawing, painting and writing.

Education goals: "I'm thinking I want to take classes in psychology. Definitely art - I love art, painting and drawing. I've been sketching ever since I could remember. I want to keep my options open."

Leach explores lifestyles of the super rich

By Jacqueline Cutler
© Zap2it

ABC's "Life of Luxury" Monday, Dec. 29, should be followed by a show on the French Revolution to remind people that when a precious few have too much and the rest wake up hungry, something is bound to snap.

The nearly embarrassing allure to the one-hour special, hosted by the obsequious Robin Leach now sporting a goatee, is that it does precisely what it should: draw in the viewer.

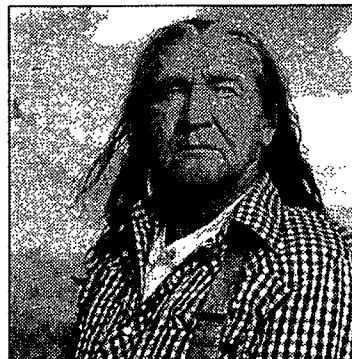

With the exception of Bill Gates, only mentioned as the richest man in the United States, and who has donated more than $6 billion to charity, this is not a special where good deeds are hailed or much noted.

Rather, Leach wallows in displays of conspicuous consumption by some of the world's wealthiest. Donald Trump owns 18 million square feet of real estate in Manhattan, where a teeny studio apartment usually rents for $2,000 a month.

Trump boasts the "highest apartment in Manhattan," a 32,000-square-foot triplex. That's just the pied-a-terre; he uses his private 727 or helicopter, which both have Trump spelled out in 23-karat gold to take him to his mansions. "When I go to a golf course, I usually own the course," Trump says. Membership at one place is $300,000 a year.

While some luxuries, such as gloved butlers rubbing sheets lest Vegas high rollers get a chill, may seem preposterous, others such as a vacation on a secluded Caribbean island are easier to understand. This one, however, owned by Sir Richard Branson, costs $36,000 a night. Book now, because next year the rate goes to $40,000.

Though the show is not well organized, it offers fun trivia about the rich. The richest royal is the king of Saudi Arabia who even has an operating room on his private jet.

Horoscope This Week

Aries (March 21 - April 20)

A secret you did not intend to let anyone know could slip out, disrupting the peace. Damage control is your mission.

Taurus (April 21 - May 20)

You might meet someone completely off the wall, and this person might have something to teach you. Pay attention.

Gemini (May 21 - June 20)

Something unexpected could crop up at work, and you'll be expected to take care of it. Be alert and ready with answers.

Cancer (June 21 - July 20)

You might have to make changes in plans for education or travel, and you won't like it. That's too bad, but there's no choice in the matter.

Leo (July 21 - Aug. 21)

A last-minute change to paperwork will be in your hands, so be sure to read all the fine print, because they'll know whom to blame.

Virgo (Aug. 22 - Sept. 22)

Your partner might surprise or shock you. Either way, you've got to roll with the punches on this one.

Libra (Sept. 23 - Oct. 22)

It might serve you well to go to the doctor for a check-up - especially if you've had a nagging health problem lately.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 - Nov. 22)

Sudden creative inspirations should not be taken lightly, nor should sudden attractions. Take note of everything right now.

Sagittarius (Nov. 23 - Dec. 20)

You could find yourself in the midst of a major home repair. Call the appropriate people to fix this one.

Capricorn (Dec. 21 - Jan. 19)

A major communication overhaul is needed in your life to salvage something that is important to you.

Aquarius (Jan. 20 - Feb. 18)

It's not a wise idea to go on a shopping spree without consulting your partner - especially for items you've only considered buying on a whim.

Pisces (Feb. 19 - March 20)

You might consider making major life changes that will alter your personal style or self. Improvement is a good thing.

'DreamKeeper' offers insight into legends

By Jacqueline Cutler
© Zap2it

ABC's "DreamKeeper" is that rarest of miniseries for which it is worth setting aside family viewing time.

Parents need not dread mind-numbing treacle for them or racy content for their children. Rather, the Hallmark Entertainment epic that airs Sunday and Monday, Dec. 28-29, pulls off the tricky feat of entertaining while educating viewers about Native American legends. Indeed, even the Native American stars say they learned much, especially about tribes other than their own.

"What always bothers me about the general knowledge of Native Americans is that the American public assumes there is one or two tribes," says Delana Studi, an actress of Cherokee, German and Irish descent who plays a Kiowa woman. "They are familiar with Sioux and Navajo. There are 547 federally recognized tribes. Each tribe has its own language and culture and creation story. They weren't just doing the major tribes everyone has heard of. Most people thought these had gone extinct. It keeps their people and their stories alive."

Their stories and how legends are passed through generations is the crux of the miniseries. Though producer Robert Halmi Sr. ("Arabian Nights," "Dinotopia") has been guilty of overusing special effects in other projects, that is not the case here.

The ambitious story opens with Grandpa (August Schellenberg, "Black Robe") telling stories to children on the reservation. He wants to go to an All Nations ceremony, but is not well enough to drive alone from South Dakota to New Mexico. His disaffected grandson Shane (Eddie Spears, "Geronimo") is coerced into driving him. This road trip gives the movie its framework, for as they drive, Grandpa tells Shane stories.

"It was the role of a lifetime, and I have been doing this for 40 years," Schellenberg says from his home just outside of Dallas. "I knew a few people like him," he says of the aged storyteller. Schellenberg, who is Mohawk and Swiss, grew up in Montreal in a foster home. He learned some Lakota for the part, and was thrilled when he realized the scope of this project.

"After the first day, I came home and said this man (director Steve Barron) is not making television, he is making a movie," Schellenberg says. "For an actor, that is such a treat nowadays. So many directors just wring it. Everything was in the province of Alberta. It was wonderful. We had snow when we needed it and rain when we needed it. The spirits were with us."

Spirits and spirituality are central to the legends. In the first, "Legend of Eagle Boy's Vision Quest," a young man fasts and meditates for days, seeking guidance. He learns that the goodness of the earth, the goodness of people and the goodness of spirits must work together.

It took 2,500 Native Americans from extras to advisors to make the 10 stories come alive. Each story does, from 1,500 herd of buffalo stampeding across an Alberta plain to the special effects of "Legend of She Crosses the Water and the Thunder Spirit."

In this one, the powerful thunder spirit falls in love with a Mohawk woman working in a cornfield. He persuades her to come to his realm, but when she becomes pregnant, she returns to her people. The only caveat is that no one must ever strike their son, and when his mortal grandmother slaps the rambunctious boy, he is taken to the sky.

No narrator drills in the moral of the stories, though lessons abound.

Shot over four months, primarily in Canada, each legend has its own actors and individual look. The movie employed 15 Native American and Native Canadian advisers to ensure the authenticity of every detail.

In one tale, "Legend of Quillwork Girl and her Seven Star Brothers," even the adviser was shocked to see rare Cheyenne leopard dogs. When men were hanging buffalo meat in the background, the adviser said women would have done that chore, so Barron changed it.

"DreamKeeper" tackles tough subjects such as a white boy reared by Kiowas in "Legend of Tehan, the Red-Haired, White Kiowa." He is not fully accepted by either group, but his Kiowa sister, Talks A Lot (Studi), stands by him.

Studi, a niece of actor Wes Studi, says she called her dad when she got a callback for the part. "Tell me about the character, what's her name?" Studi says her dad asked. "Talks A Lot," she replied. "There was silence for about five minutes, then my father was the one who said, 'The part is yours.'"

Not all of the legends are serious. "Legend of Coyote and Iktome" and "Legend of Coyote and Iktome and Iktome's Wife" are slapstick.

These legends are Spears' favorites. Playing a troubled teen who owes money to gangbangers and listens to rap was great, Spears says. "I kind of relate to him, growing up on 'the rez,'" says Spears, a Lakota, who spent his first six years on a reservation before moving to Pierre, S.D.

The actors rave about the miniseries' accuracy, which offers the sort of detailed history usually the purview of drier documentaries. Given that "DreamKeeper" is told as a series of stories, viewers will likely stick with it, and by doing so, learn more about indigenous people.

Fans screamed 'U.N.C.L.E.' for 'NCIS' star

Q I remember David McCallum of "Navy NCIS" from his days on "I Spy" with Robert Vaughn, and he looks no older today. What has he been doing since that show? -Gary Higley, Grand Junction, Colo.

A Actually, McCallum and Vaughn had nothing to do with the Robert Culp-Bill Cosby series "I Spy," but they were the high-profile stars of another NBC spy thriller: "The Man From U.N.C.L.E.," which made an instant TV sex symbol of McCallum in his role as boyish blond Russian agent Ilya Kuryakin when the show premiered in 1964.

A native of Glasgow, Scotland, and the son of famed violinist David McCallum Sr. and cellist Dorothy Dorman, McCallum briefly studied music before entering the Royal Academy of Dramatic Art. He made nearly a dozen movies in the United Kingdom before breaking through as Lt. Wyatt in 1962's "Billy Budd."

Since "U.N.C.L.E." left the air in 1968, the genial but low-key McCallum has worked steadily on stage and both big and small screens in the United States as well as back home in Great Britain. He was nominated for an Emmy for his wrenching performance in "Teacher, Teacher," a 1969 Hallmark Hall of Fame drama in which he played an alcoholic teacher who connects with a retarded boy.

McCallum communicates with his fans through an official Web site found at <http://davidmccallum.org>.

Q I was sad to learn of the death of Jonathan Brandis, best known as Lucas on "SeaQuest DSV." What happened? -Kaitlin via e-mail.

A The Los Angeles County coroner's office has ruled the 27-year-old actor's death on Nov. 12 a suicide. Police reports indicate that a friend of the former teen star called emergency services late on Nov. 11 to report that Brandis had hanged himself. Paramedics rushed to Brandis' home and transported him to a local hospital, but the actor died the next day. Some news reports indicated that Brandis had been struggling with depression, but no other details were released.

How good network characters can be better in 2004

By Jay Bobbin, John Crook, Jackie Cutler and Kate O'Hare
© Zap2it

For many people, New Year's Day marks an opportunity to make some necessary changes in their lives.

The same goes for some of our favorite characters on network television. Like us, they're flawed. Of course, they also aren't real, but that isn't stopping us from suggesting the following ways they can improve themselves.

Seth Cohen on "The O.C." (Fox): Send Captain Oats back to the corral; hot girls and toy horses don't mix in the bedroom. Also, try a little "Queer Eye." The oxford shirts are OK, but as a newly minted stud, how about some leather? And don't worry, no matter how many eye rolls Ryan does, you're still the funny one.

Sydney Bristow on "Alias" (ABC): Leave Vaughn behind and discover your true love is Agent Eric, who wouldn't run off and marry someone else just because the DNA matched. And next time you have a two-year alter ego, get a better name than Julia. How about Desiree or Minx ...

Spike on "Angel" (The WB Network): Crawl out of Angel's shadow now that you're both big heroes. And get a new look, because we're so over that coat and hair color. The Billy Idol thing is so last century. Maybe it's time to reclaim your inner poet and go all Victorian dandy. Hmmm ...

Big Ed Deline on "Las Vegas" (NBC): Take Mrs. Ed on a real vacation, not just a dumpy motel as part of a plan to test Danny. Or if you're going to test Danny, make him think he's been kidnapped by the mob. You remember the mob, eh, Sonny?

Gil Grissom on "C.S.I.: Crime Scene Investigation" (CBS): Ask Sarah out, because we can't stand her cow-eyed longing anymore. Be nicer to Nick, because George Eads needs more screen time. And that beard? How "Manhunter" of you.

Lucas Scott on "One Tree Hill" (The WB): Be more focused. Your grades and game are both OK, but you've unknowingly been going to a small-town school with your half-brother for years. Does Peyton have to draw you a picture for everything?

Lorelai Gilmore on "Gilmore Girls" (The WB): Be more tolerant of your mother, although the woman certainly could meet you halfway. At least those Friday-night dinners help keep you quirkily fashion-fit, since who could eat much with Emily picking at everything you say and do?

Joey Tribbiani on "Friends" (NBC): Rachel and Ross as parents, Monica and Chandler adopting a kid, and Phoebs marrying Mike: Dude, it's time to move on with your life. Focus on a new acting gig or even consider moving. Set a deadline for spending less time with your Central Perk pals. Next fall looks good.

Elizabeth Rodgers on "Law & Order" (NBC): Score with your dream guy, police Detective Lennie Briscoe, but do it away from the office. That perfume you spent a bundle on is wasted around all those stiff in the lab, and it's hard to cast "come hither" glances over gaping chest wounds.

Ephram Brown on "Everwood" (The WB): You seem to relish self-inflicted pain, so strive even harder to feel martyred by your life. That will be almost impossible to achieve, but it will certainly help if you continue pursuing passive-aggressive, mood-swinging, self-medicating Amy Abbott. Seriously, kid, snap out of it!

Dana on "According to Jim" (ABC): Be more charitable toward Jim. It's been several years, and he's still your brother-in-law. Sure, he can be a lout, but he has a good heart. Besides, he lets you hang at his house constantly, so he accepts you as part of the family. Why not reciprocate?

Calleigh Duquesne on "CSI: Miami" (CBS): Get a life outside work. Your sharp and lively mind provides excellent assessments of crime scenes and causes of death, and it also can attract a wide range of suitors.

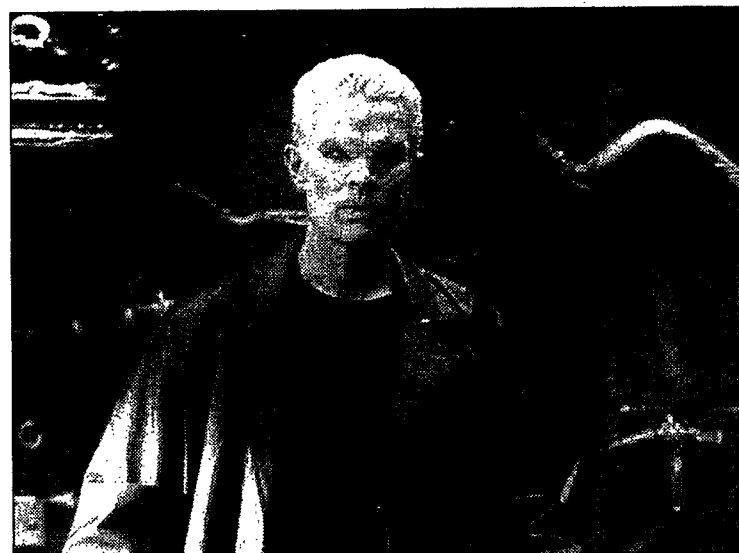

Jake Foley on "Jake 2.0" (UPN): Give medical expert Diane more of the kind of attention she deserves from you. We know you're preoccupied with thoughts of someone else - namely Sarah - but take a good look at Diane. Witty. Cute. The authority on any nanite problem. Go for it.

Nancy Burton on "Ed" (NBC): Support husband Mike wholeheartedly. Yes, he's Stuckeyville's biggest lug, but his weird perspective makes him more lovable. Don't roll your eyes or wrinkle your nose at every nutty observation he makes. Besides, there are too many of them.

Lana Lang on "Smallville" (The WB): Accept there are secrets Clark never will reveal - though we realize you can't read the comic books that would clue you into his destiny in Metropolis. Waiting for him to change ultimately will hurt you more than him.

Amy Gray on "Judging Amy" (CBS): Grow up. Even though you're often brilliant on the bench, you are a petulant teenager off it. Sure, you have the wisest mother, but it's time for you to be one, especially with your daughter on the brink of teenhood.

Montgomery Burns on "The Simpsons" (Fox): Share. As the richest man in Springfield, you are also the poorest man on the planet. Give a few million away; the schools need it, the town needs it and you can't buy a new soul.

Toby Ziegler on "The West Wing" (NBC): It may be too grand of a goal to have a sense of humor, so how about understanding politics is the art of compromise? Learn how to give as well as take, and stop acting as if the world rests on your slumped shoulders.

Karen Walker "Will & Grace" (NBC): No resolution list is complete without at least one alcoholic promising sobriety. Of course it would make you much duller, but how many martinis can one petite woman drink before her loopy act gets tired?

Abby Lockhart on "ER" (NBC): Accept that you are only human and not such a great one at that. Quit whining, and stop assuming that you know better than the other physicians. Now that you're back in med school, learn how to become a good doctor.

So - a sober Karen Walker? A mature Joey Tribbiani? An Emily-friendly Lorelai Gilmore? On second thought, while those might be commendable changes in real-life people, don't look for these TV folks to make them any time soon. They may be cranky, selfish, foolish, tipsy, shallow and self-indulgent, but that's also what keeps them unpredictable - and us tuning in week after week.

Clark returns to Times Square for 'New Year's Rockin' Eve'

By John Crook
© Zap2it

When it comes to his annual ABC "New Year's Rockin' Eve" telecast, Dick Clark has a firm rule: If it isn't broken, don't fix it.

"Nothing has changed on this show in 32 years, except for the music and the participants," Clark says. "This is a party, a time to escape (worries), although we'll go to other locations around the world to see how people in those places are marking the arrival of the New Year, from Melbourne, Australia, to Russia and China."

Those on-location segments are scheduled to feature concert performances from artists including Avril Lavigne, Elton John, KISS and the Melbourne Symphony Orchestra, Aerosmith, Bon Jovi and Tim McGraw.

The midnight dropping of the illuminated ball will be followed half an hour later by more music from scheduled performers including Jessica Simpson and Nick Lachey, plus Jason Mraz, 3 Doors Down, the Black Eyed Peas, Rascal Flatts, Jagged Edge, Bow Wow, Donna Summer and Hall & Oates.

"We've stood up against a lot of competition over the years," says Clark, who is executive producer of this New Year's special as well as its host. "Fox and MTV have come out with their own New Year's Eve shows. CBS and NBC still remain there with some special addition to whatever they are doing that night, but the truth of the matter is, in the ratings last year, we beat NBC, CBS, Fox and MTV combined, with almost prime-time-level ratings.

"I'm real proud of that, because we have established a franchise."

Clark says he first had the idea of producing a New Year's special with a younger feel to it while watching one of Guy Lombardo's staid Dec. 31 concerts from New York's Waldorf-Astoria Hotel.

"Guy was such a (New Year's) fixture, there was a joke that when he died, he'd take New Year's with him," Clark quips. "I said, 'Let's put something on that's a little more contemporary, so we came up with that silly title 'New Year's Rockin' Eve,' which eventually caught on."

He got the hosting gig by default.

"I was younger and the price was right," he laughs, "and my then-girlfriend, who became my wife, and I and a guy on a stepladder with a camera were ... our New Year's coverage from Times Square, and it has grown considerably since then.

"Whether you are home alone or at a gathering with friends, people tend to turn on the TV set to watch the ball drop and the celebration that follows."

While the format has remained consistent, some years the special has carried some unexpected behind-the-scenes suspense, Clark acknowledges.

"The year of the Iranian hostage crisis, the owner of the Times Square building said he was going to turn out all the lights and not drop the ball as a protest," he recalls. "I thought, 'Oh, my God, we don't have a show!' I pleaded with him to turn out the lights for one minute, during which we would talk about (the issue on air), then let the dropping of the ball go on as usual. Fortunately, he bought my line of thinking."

"Another year, a soft-drink company wanted to 'sponsor' the ball and lower their logo instead. The network freaked, as I did, and we went as far as to build our own tiny little ball that we could cut to if they went through with it. Fortunately, intelligence prevailed and the owner did not sell out."

"Dick Clark's New Year's Rockin' Eve" will find the affable former host of "American Bandstand" in New York's Times Square to usher in the new year Wednesday on ABC. Clark and his 'Rockin' specials have become a New Year's Eve tradition over the past

ABC's Danielson likes K-State

By George Dickie
© Zap2it

The holidays are a time for family, friends and college football bowl games.

This week (and next Sunday), the season wraps up with the four Bowl Championship Series games, the Rose, Orange, Fiesta and Sugar, all of which air on ABC. Analyst Gary Danielson recently surveyed the bowl game scene and offered his insights on the four BCS games.

The first game, the Rose Bowl (Thursday, Jan. 1, from the Rose Bowl in Pasadena, Calif.), pits top-ranked USC against No. 4 Michigan. Of that game, Danielson says, "I actually don't even think there's a team in the country besides Kansas State that can match these two teams offensively. They both have balance running the ball, and they have great skill receivers catching the ball. Their quarterbacks are both similar in that they don't like to run around a lot - they're pretty much professional, drop-back guys."

"The key to this game is that two receiving groups are both playmakers; they'll be fun to watch. It's a great matchup, and (another key is) whether Chris Perry can run the ball better than Southern Cal's group of tailbacks."

"And Michigan's been coming on," Danielson continues. "They're a very, very good team. Michigan doesn't have a great pass rush, and Southern Cal's pass rush is above average. So,

(the key) will be which group of skill receivers can get the ball the most."

The Orange Bowl (Thursday, Jan. 1, from the Orange Bowl in Miami) is, appropriately, an all-Florida affair, pitting No. 9-ranked Miami and eighth-ranked Florida State.

"These two teams are better defensively than they are offensively," Danielson says. "Miami's defense is the only defense in the country that can compare to Oklahoma's. Miami's defense can play with anyone. (However), this is the worst Miami offense I've seen in 10 years. They just really struggle to move the ball on offense. Florida State is kind of dependent on how their quarterback plays. If Chris Rix plays well, they score a lot of points. He gambles a lot, he scrambles a lot, he's prone to turnovers, and that's how Miami thrives. That'll probably be the key to the game."

The Fiesta Bowl (Friday, Jan. 2, from Sun Devil Stadium in Tempe, Ariz.) features No. 10-ranked Kansas State squaring off against sixth-ranked Ohio State, the defending national champion. "I see this as a real tough matchup for Ohio State," Danielson says. "Kansas State was actually my pick to win the national championship this year. I think they're the most balanced team out there. The reason they lost three games is they lost their quarterback (Eli Roberson to a wrist injury), and that really cost them."

"If you were having a playoff right now, I don't see who could beat Kansas State. They're the best team. I thought they were all along. That's the funny part about this argument about a playoff. If there was a playoff, Kansas State would be the team to beat. They were good all year. They're a great team."

The national championship game, the Sugar Bowl (Jan. 4 from the Louisiana Superdome in New Orleans), pits second-ranked LSU versus third-ranked Oklahoma. "I feel that they have both earned an opportunity to play in a big bowl game," Danielson says. "I knew Oklahoma wasn't the greatest team of all time and that they could be beaten by any of the top 10 teams in the country. They were probably the best, but they could be beaten. You have to play a very good game against them like Kansas State did (a 35-7 K-State romp in the Big 12 title game), and you have to have a defensive line that can rush the passer. If you don't have that, you can't beat them. LSU in a matchup is the best matchup to beat Oklahoma because they also have a front four that can put pressure on (QB) Jason White. If you don't do that, you get crushed. So that's their opportunity."

"The question will be, do they have enough offense to match, because if you don't have a (RB) Darren Sproles or a great quarterback or two good receivers, you become tilted against them and their defense will take control. That'll be the challenge."

"Pittsburgh Steelers at Baltimore Ravens" Sunday, Dec. 28 (ESPN, 8:30 p.m. ET): The Ravens will be looking to seal up the AFC North title tonight, and the man to whom they'll be looking to get them there is Jamal Lewis. Through early December, the fifth-year runner had over 1,600 yards on the ground, leaving him within striking distance of becoming only the fifth player in NFL history to rush for 2,000 or more in a season. But he'll have to do it against a Pittsburgh run defense that has ranked in the league's top 10 nearly all season.

"Philadelphia 76ers at San Antonio Spurs" Saturday, Jan. 3 (ABC, 1:30 p.m. ET): The Sixers started the season barely over .500, but in an Atlantic Division where every other contending team also is floundering,

Allen Iverson and company have found that that mark has been good enough for first place. By contrast, the Spurs, with a nearly identical record, have been occupying the bottom of the Midwest, an alien environment indeed for Tim Duncan and the defending NBA champs.

"NFL Football" Saturday, Jan. 3 (ABC, 4:30 p.m. ET): The NFL post-season gets under way today with the first pair of Wildcard Games, pitting teams that have earned a wildcard berth against the third- and fourth-ranked division winners in each conference. Two more games take place on Sunday (the NFC airing on Fox; AFC on CBS), and all four winners from this weekend advance to the Divisional Playoffs against the first- and second-ranked division winners of each conference next weekend.

Movie: Babe

A piglet's charming tale leads from barnyard to sheepfold in this 1995 sleeper hit. Joining the livestock on a New Zealand farm, Babe the pig is adopted by a maternal sheep dog and makes friends with an old ewe, while the goose mistreats him and the cat is downright unfriendly. A candidate for Christmas dinner, Babe proves he is much too good to eat. Jim Henson's Creature Shop was responsible for the film's convincing effects.

Movie: Mouse Hunt

Picture "Home Alone" with a furry little critter in the Macaulay Culkin role, and you have the basic premise of this 1997 slapstick comedy. Nathan Lane and Lee Evans play bumbling brothers with visions of big bucks from the sale of the valuable Victorian house they've inherited. But first, they have to evict the current tenant, a resourceful rodent that laughs at traps, cats and the exterminator.

Saturday

10 p.m. on TBS

Movie: Back to the Future Part III

In this entertaining 1990 conclusion to the fantasy trilogy, time traveler Marty McFly (Michael J. Fox) goes back before his own era. He pursues his scientist friend Doc Brown (Christopher Lloyd) to the Old West, where Doc finds romance with a schoolmarm (Mary Steenburgen). All of them find lots of traditional frontier adventure, leading up to a satisfying conclusion to the series.

Sea Coast Echo

December 28, 2003 - January 3, 2004

Sunday Best Bets

6 p.m. on 26-ABC on 13-ABC

TV Guide: Greatest Moments 2003

George Lopez hosts this two-hour look back at the year's 20 most memorable moments on the small screen. The special also spotlights hot TV trends of 2003 — such as makeover shows and talent competitions — and viewers' favorite stars, as chosen in an online poll.

6:30 p.m. on 8-FOX on 25-FOX

Movie: Die Hard

New York cop John McClane (Bruce Willis) flies to Los Angeles to surprise his estranged wife (Bonnie Bedelia) at her office Christmas party. But he's not the only crasher at this affair; shortly after his arrival, a band of terrorists invades and takes the employees hostage. Now it's the bad guys' turn to be surprised when McClane shows his well-developed skill at kicking butt. Reginald VelJohnson and Alan Rickman also star in this 1988 thriller.

7 p.m. on 38-WB

Charmed

Piper, Phoebe and Paige (Holly Marie Combs, Alyssa Milano, Rose

McGowan) are trapped in a "Groundhog Day"-like situation in "Forget Me Not." Piper's baby, Wyatt, is kidnapped by two members of a group determined to keep magic secret.

7:30 p.m. on 4-CBS

Movie: One True Thing

Meryl Streep was Oscar-nominated for her typically excellent performance in director Carl Franklin's moving 1998 drama, based on the novel by Anna Quindlen. Streep plays a cancer-stricken woman getting care from her career-driven daughter (Renee Zellweger), who takes on the task reluctantly at first. William Hurt also does fine work as the family patriarch; Tom Everett Scott and Lauren Graham ("Gilmore Girls") co-star.

7:30 p.m. on ESPN

NFL Football

The Ravens will be looking to seal up the AFC North title tonight, and the man to whom they'll be looking to get them there is Jamal Lewis. Through early December, the fifth-year runner had over 1,600 yards on the ground, leaving him within striking distance of becoming only the fifth player in NFL history to rush for 2,000 or more in a season.

8 p.m. on 26-ABC on 13-ABC

Movie: DreamKeeper

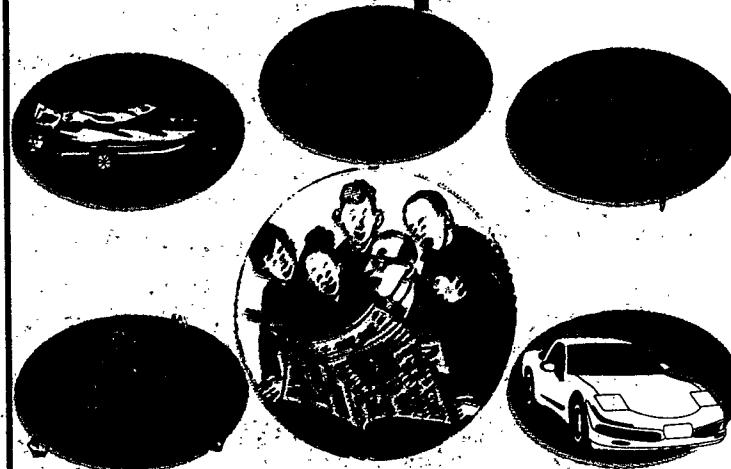

American Indian legends fuel this new two-part miniseries boasting an indigenous cast — a rarity for network television. August Schellenberg portrays a storyteller who shares his tales with a youth (Eddie Spears) on the run from fellow gang members. Gary Farmer, Michael Greyeyes, Sheila Tousey and Floyd "Red Crow" Westernman also star. Part 2 airs Monday.

9 p.m. on 6-NBC

Boomtown

Turcotte (Jason Gedrick) is upset that he missed the chance to save an actress from apparent foul play in the new episode "The Big Picture." The woman was with a minor Hollywood director just before she disappeared, and while Turcotte and Pierce (Vanessa Williams) try to find her, Stevens and Smith (Donnie Wahlberg, Mykelti Williamson) investigate the filmmaker.

All My Children

Before they arrived in Pine Valley, Babe 'confessed' to J.R. that she became pregnant on purpose. Adam then snuck into the doctor's office to peek at Babe's file but was caught by Tad, who had him arrested. Babe bailed Adam out, hoping to create peace with him. Meanwhile, Jamie wanted Jack to represent him in a paternity suit. Kendall and Ryan made love after he gave her a prosthesis to make her look pregnant. When Greenlee made plans to meet with Juan Pablo after receiving a note from him, Ryan abducted her. Bianca had a miraculous experience that convinced her she could love her child, even though Michael is the father. Coming: Aidan admits his true feelings to Kendall.

As the World Turns

Lily found it impossible to remain emotionally stable and began acting like Rose, eventually going missing after she went off with three tipsy strangers. James passed a polygraph test and implicated Paul in Rose's death. Molly was arrested for destroying Rose's car and for obstructing justice in setting up Dusty. Barbara planted the goblet in Molly's room, unaware that Craig saw her. When Joe accused Dusty of killing Rose for insurance money, Dusty started to sign the policy over to him. A pressured Alison finally told Aaron that he's not the baby's father. Jessica and Ben learned that Sarah might have run away. Coming: Craig makes use of what he witnessed.

Bold and Beautiful

With Deacon's company settled into their offices at Forrester, Bridget took charge of Deacon's physical therapy. Much to Deacon's delight, Bridget helped him make a breakthrough, enabling him to function sexually again. When Eric offered Oscar a job to keep Deacon at bay, Oscar realized that Eric had the right idea and accepted, pleased that Eric is supporting his commitment with Bridget. Nick responded to Ridge's presentation of adoption papers by refusing to give up his child, but Brooke took them both by surprise saying she knows what to do. Coming: Deacon makes emotional inroads with Bridget.

Days of Our Lives

Jennifer was stunned to find out that she's pregnant. Sami witnessed Roman giving Kate an engagement ring and vowed to stop the wedding but had no idea that the nuptials were set for the very next day. Brady was convinced that Chloe wasn't coming back when she appeared in a group of carolers and they were reunited. Nicole fumed with envy when Victor gave Isabella's pearls to Chloe. Roman ordered his security detail removed as the killer kept sending messages to his PDA. Mimi's arrival foiled Jan's plan to attack Belle. Sami and Lucas were drawn to each other but continued to be in denial about their true feelings. Coming: Roman faces mortal danger.

General Hospital

After rejecting Skye one too many times, Luke received a visit from three spirits a la 'A Christmas Carol' and realized that he's been given a second chance at life. Courtney couldn't make amends with Jason and got closer to Brian, but he accused her of sending him mixed signals. Sam was placed in grave danger when Cody set off an explosion on Nikolas' freighter while she was in the water retrieving the treasure beneath the ship. Elizabeth admitted to Ric that Zander is the baby's father. When Zander rejected Ric and Elizabeth's suggestion that they raise the child, Emily visited Zander on Elizabeth's behalf. Sage and Georgie fought at the Christmas party. Coming: Carly is thinking about Alcazar again.

Soap Synopsis

Guiding Light

Olivia agreed to stay in town when Christopher asked her to help Phillip with his recovery. Ross proposed to Blake, and they were remarried in a romantic holiday setting. Ross' decision to run for mayor became grounds for conflict between him and Blake and Danny and Michelle. Someone called Eden and Tony to the church, leading them to become concerned for Danny and Bill's safety. Harley became more involved in Jeffrey's quest to uncover Spaulding dirt. Jeffrey and Marah shared a kiss after he revealed something personal about himself. Shayne injured himself working too hard in rehab. Coming: Olivia keeps reaching out to Phillip.

One Life to Live

Al succeeded in having Michael perform three good deeds, giving him until Valentine's Day to get Marcie to fall in love with him. Marcie was later amazed when Michael seemed to read her mind. Paul regained consciousness before David and Dorian could marry him off in a drugged state. Under a holiday spell, Blair and Walker felt their love for each other as they put aside their schemes for revenge. Bo, John and Nora found evidence matching fibers from a crime scene to an interrogation room at Statesville. Joey and Jen said goodbye as he prepared to leave for London. Coming: Nora finds herself face to face with Troy.

Passions

Mrs. Wallace and Precious took matters into their own hands to save baby Martin's life. Before Beth's horrified eyes, Sheridan was reunited with her child.

Meanwhile, Eve grew suspicious of Dr. Ackland. Ackland, secretly working for Alistair, was about to follow Alistair's orders to give Sheridan a very dangerous drug. Theresa tried to enjoy the holidays with her son while Rebecca plotted against her and Ethan kept working behind the scenes to help Theresa without Gwen finding out. Fox's efforts to help little Ethan and Theresa endeared him to Whitney. Coming: Rebecca causes more misery.

Young and Restless

Stunned to see the rare orchid in Dru's wedding bouquet, Vanessa and Damon found another one in the forest. Phyllis found a photo of the orchid in Damon's suite and told Neil, as they decided to have it analyzed in the Newman lab. Ashley visited Victor in jail, convincing him to post his bail and spend the holidays with his family. Cameron got Nick to agree to have Sharon help him plan a New Year's Eve party. Sharon freaked out when Cameron appeared at her door. J.T. and Colleen were horrified to learn that Kevin's STD test was negative and the restraining order against him has been lifted. Coming: Neil suspects company spies are afoot.

There is life the 'Days' after for Thorpe

By Candace Havens
© Zap2it

Former "Days of Our Lives" star Alexis Thorpe (Cassie) will miss her character, friends and the crew, but she's looking forward to moving on.

"I feel very attached to Cassie and I always wanted so much for her," Thorpe says. "As she grew and developed on the show, so did I, and for that, I will always be grateful."

Leaving the show is a bit like saying goodbye to family members. "That's the hardest part of all of this," Thorpe says. "You become such great friends, not just with the cast but with the crew. I just love the camera guys, and everyone in hair and makeup. They are all wonderful."

After she filmed her final scenes, the actress flew to Capetown, South Africa to spend some time with friends and family.

She says she'll take a few weeks to decide what she wants to do next. At this time, Thorpe isn't sure if she wants to work on another soap or audition for pilot season.

"Change is always kind of scary, but it can be good, too," she says.

Dear Candace: My husband and I are big fans of "The Young and the Restless."

I tape it every day so we can watch it together.

What I was wondering is why all of the women characters must have their breasts exposed? It's really in bad taste. These are beautiful women and it just isn't necessary. -Shirley Bongiomio, Peck, Kan.

Dear Reader: "Y&R" always has been considered by most as a fashionable and sexy show.

Dear Candace: This is difficult for me to write, but I think it's time the writers of "The Bold and Beautiful" took a moment to look at things from the fan's point of view. Brooke Logan (Katherine Kelly Lang) has slept with almost every male on the show, including her son-in-law. She had his baby. And she repeats the same behavior over and over. It doesn't make any sense. Any intelligent person would have some kind of clue by now. -L.S. in Illinois.

Dear Reader: You would think Brooke would have learned at least a few life lessons by now. But it never seems to happen.

Tuesday Best Bets

7 p.m. on 26-ABC on 13-ABC

8 Simple Rules

Jim (James Garner) helps Cate (Katey Sagal) persuade Rory (Martin Spanjers) to continue pursuing a spot on the school basketball team, as Paul hoped Rory would, in "What Dad Would Want." Bridget and Kerry (Kaley Cuoco, Amy Davidson) agree to put their differences aside in memory of their father, but a mishap involving a collage about him ends the sisters' truce.

7 p.m. on 38-WB

Gilmore Girls

A dancer (guest star Katherine Brunk) doesn't react well to Rory's (Alexis Bledel) highly critical review of the Yale ballet troupe in the university's newspaper in "Die, Jerk." The vengeful ballerina sets out to make Rory's life miserable. Jason (Chris Eigeman) connives a dinner invitation out of Emily (Kelly Bishop) in order to continue his pursuit of Lorelai (Lauren Graham).

7 p.m. on 19-PBS

Nova

The incredible adventure of Ernest Shackleton is traced in the two-hour documentary, "Shackleton's Voyage of Endurance." In late 1914, Shackleton and his 27-man crew set out on a quest to become the first to cross the continent of Antarctica. However, in January 1915, they and the ship Endurance became trapped in ice — and the ship eventually was crushed, stranding the men on an ice floe.

7 p.m. on 54-UPN

One on One

Flex (Flex Alexander) has a midlife crisis, making him eager to prove he still can attract the opposite sex, in "2 Young, 2 Curious." He scores points with a younger woman (guest star Angell Cromwell) — much younger, it turns out, since she's one of Breanna's (Kyla Pratt) classmates. The flirtation could damage Breanna's bid to be accepted into an exclusive club.

7 p.m. and AMC

Movie: Midway

This 1976 epic about the World War II battle for a key Pacific island uses lots of real war footage and clips from '40s flicks. The multigenerational cast includes such veteran actors as Charlton Heston, Henry Fonda, Glenn Ford, Cliff Robertson and Robert Mitchum, and rising young stars of the day, including Tom Selleck and Erik Estrada.

8 p.m. on 38-WB

One Tree Hill

Crashing a college party is fun for Peyton and Brooke (Hilarie Burton, Sophia Bush) until someone drugs Peyton in "The Search for Something More." Brooke summons Lucas (Chad Michael Murray), whose stock goes up in her eyes because of his response. Nathan (James Lafferty) gets Haley (Bethany Joy Lenz) to go on a date with him.

8 p.m. on USA

Movie: Apollo 13

Tom Hanks stars as Cmdr. Jim Lovell in director Ron Howard's 1995 theatrical hit about the near-disastrous 1970 Apollo 13 mission. Headed for the moon, Lovell and his crew, Fred Haise and Jack Swigert (Bill Paxton, Kevin Bacon), experience an on-board explosion. On the ground, their colleagues scramble for a solution while the world holds its breath. Gary Sinise and Ed Harris also star. Jim Lovell appears in a cameo role.

9 p.m. on 4-CBS

Judging Amy

Amy and Maxine (Amy Brenneman, Tyne Daly) have had their share of personal conflicts, but their disagreement is professional in "Ex Parte of Five." Amy rules that a young girl can testify about witnessing her brother's murder, but Maxine counters that the child isn't competent enough to take the stand.

Martin Spanjers, Kaley Cuoco and Amy Davidson

9 p.m. on 6-NBC

Law & Order: Special Victims Unit
Mare Winningham guest stars in "Manic" as the mother of a student (guest star Rory Culkin, "Signs") involved in the probe of the shootings of two high-school basketball players. Benson and Stabler (Mariska Hargitay, Christopher Meloni) are surprised when they eventually learn the shooter's identity.

Movie: Love & Basketball

Writer-director Gina Prince-Bythwood's critically acclaimed 2000 romantic drama stars Omar Epps ("ER") and Sanaa Lathan ("Out of Time") as childhood neighbors who both pursue careers in pro basketball. Ambition threatens their feelings for each other at numerous points, forcing them to determine which aspect of their lives — love or basketball — is most important to them. Alfre Woodard also stars.

7:30 p.m. on 26-ABC on 13-ABC

It's All Relative

Bobby (Reid Scott) strives to observe the household rules of tidiness as he occupies the guest house at the residence of Liz's (Maggie Lawson) two fathers in "Hell's Kitchen." He quickly creates mayhem, though, when his desire for some coffee causes a pipe in the kitchen to burst. Bobby then appeals to his father (Lenny Clarke) for repair assistance.

8 p.m. on 4-CBS

The King of Queens

Doug (Kevin James) knows what he likes and isn't happy when he doesn't get it, as he proves in "Taste Buds." Arthur (Jerry Stiller) chooses the menu and the movie for an evening, and though Carrie (Leah Remini) is satisfied, Doug isn't. He tries to persuade Arthur to switch to the food and the film he desires.

8 p.m. on 54-UPN

Jake 2.0

Jake (Christopher Gorham) insists on taking time off from his job to go to the wedding of his best friend in "Last Man Standing." His presence at the event causes his bosses' fear to come true, since an assassin is after him. Diane (Keegan Connor Tracy) follows Jake to the nuptials after a laboratory rat dies, evidently because of the same nanites that are inside Jake.

9 p.m. on 26-ABC on 13-ABC

Dick Clark's Primetime New Year's Rockin' Eve 2004

It began as a young, hip alternative to Guy Lombardo's perennial New Year's Eve festivities. But with the passing of Lombardo and the passage of the young, hip crowd into middle age, Dick Clark's show has been the place to go for ringing in the new year. This prime-time portion features highlights of 2003 concerts by Aerosmith, Bon Jovi and other acts; on the late-night edition, spouses Jessica Simpson and Nick Lachey are co-hosts.

9 p.m. on TNT

Movie: Crossfire Trail

Tom Selleck stars in this 2001 adaptation of a novel by his late friend Louis L'Amour. He plays a man who promises to look after a friend's widow. (Virginia Madsen), a task that involves keeping her and her Wyoming ranch from the clutches of the town bully (Mark Harmon). Complicating things is his growing attraction to the lady, which gives him his share of moral qualms despite the fact that she's free. Wilford Brimley co-stars.

10 p.m. on 25-FOX

America's Party

Ryan Seacrest has proven on "American Idol" that he can get a party started, so he should be the right man for the job as host of this New Year's Eve special, originating from Las Vegas. Several music acts — yet to be named — will be on the bill of fare, and the big moment in New York's Times Square will be included as well. The program will switch there for the traditional descent of the illuminated globe.

10 p.m. on HBO

Sex and the City

Before the show's final season resumes, a marathon of the year's episodes to date offers a refresher. "To Market, to Market" finds Carrie (Sarah Jessica Parker) pondering whether a new beau (Ron Livingston) is worth her emotional investment. Samantha (Kim Cattrall) has neighborhood concerns; Charlotte (Kristin Davis) is marriage-minded again; and Miranda (Cynthia Nixon) reconsiders the nature of her relationship with Steve (David Eigenberg).

Reba

Barbra Jean and Cheyenne (Melissa Peterman, JoAnna Garcia) invite a counselor (guest star Martin Mull) to Reba's (Reba McEntire) house for a couples therapy session in "Encounters." Brock and Van (Christopher Rich, Steve Howey) aren't pleased to have to participate — nor are Reba and Kyra (Scarlett Pomers), who also are drawn in.

7 p.m. and DSC

America's Thrillmakers

Roller coasters, ferris wheels and the like remain popular staples of theme parks — but of equal appeal are the special rides that allow guests to feel they're rocketing through space or wandering through the prehistoric era. This new special surveys such attractions, letting viewers also sense the thrills that are generated mechanically, yet feel remarkably authentic.

7:30 p.m. on 8-FOX on 25-FOX

Malcolm in the Middle

The family heads to Las Vegas in "Vegas." The trip is prompted by Dewey's (Erik Per Sullivan) role in a Junior Farmers of America contest, and a highlight of the trek is a performance by a lounge singer (guest star David Cassidy) who was Lois' (Jane Kaczmarek) girlhood crush.

8 p.m. on 4-CBS

JAG

American troops find a U.S. petty officer (guest star Kim Myers) living in Iraq as a sheik's wife in "Shifting Sands." Mac (Catherine Bell) tries to prove that the woman, the daughter of an admiral (guest star Denis Arndt), was not spying for the enemy. Adm. Chegwidden (John M. Jackson) reveals that Harm's (David James Elliott) resignation is in effect.

9 p.m. on TBS

Movie: The Other Sister

Directed by Garry Marshall ("Runaway Bride"), this enjoyable 1999 comedy-drama casts Juliette Lewis as a mentally challenged woman. When she falls in love with a young man (Giovanni Ribisi) with the same condition, the relationship alarms her overprotective mother (Diane Keaton).

Saturday Best Bets

7 p.m. on 6-NBC

Movie: Heartbreakers

Sigourney Weaver and Jennifer Love Hewitt star as mother-and-daughter con artists in this 2001 comedy. As skilled as the ladies are at their game, some of their "marks" eventually get wise to them. Weaver's latest target is a lascivious senior citizen (an amusing Gene Hackman), but one of the women's previous victims (Ray Liotta) is unhappy about being bilked — and ready to settle the score with them.

7 p.m. on AMC

Movie: No Way Out

A Navy officer's (Kevin Costner) new job in the defense secretary's office lands him in the fight of his life. He falls for a beautiful woman (Sean Young) who turns out to be dating his boss (Gene Hackman). She's killed, and the Navy man becomes entangled in an attempt to cover up the truth — a cover-up that could make him the fall guy. Will Patton and George Dzundza also star in this 1987 thriller, which won raves for its plot twists.

7 p.m. and BRAV

Movie: The Vanishing

George Sluizer garnered rave reviews for his direction of the original 1988 French-Dutch version of this thriller, but he did not fare as well in this 1993 American remake. A man's obsessive search for his missing girlfriend attracts the attention of the man who abducted her three years ago. Kiefer Sutherland, Jeff Bridges, Nancy Travis and Sandra Bullock star.

7 p.m. on HBO

Movie: The Ring

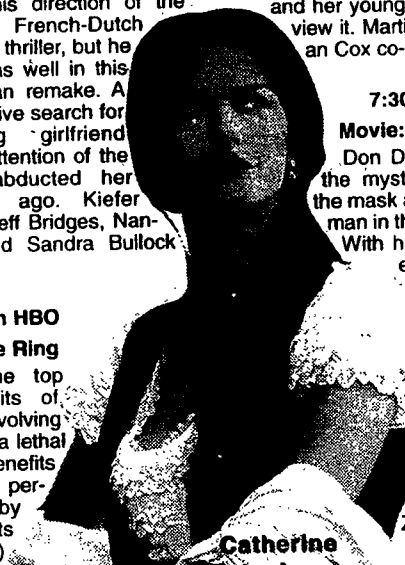

One of the top box-office hits of 2002, this involving thriller about a lethal videotape benefits from a solid performance by Naomi Watts ("Le Divorce") as a reporter whose niece becomes a victim of the recording. Anyone who watches it dies a week later. The journalist has added incentive to solve the mystery after she and her young son (David Dorfman) view it. Martin Henderson and Brian Cox co-star.

7:30 p.m. on 4-CBS

Movie: The Mask of Zorro

Don Diego de la Vega, aka the mysterious Zorro, passes the mask and cape to a younger man in this 1998 action drama. With his old nemesis — the evil Don Rafael (Stuart Wilson) — preparing to buy California from Mexico, an aging Don Diego (Anthony Hopkins) hand-picks urchin-turned-bandit Alejandro (Antonio Banderas) to train as his successor. Catherine Zeta-Jones makes her mark as Don Rafael's adopted daughter.

STARTING THIS WEEK (New releases):

"AMERICAN WEDDING": The third installment of the "American Pie" comedy movies tones down the gross-out quotient, owing to the sweeter-than-usual story of Jim and Michelle's (Jason Biggs, Alyson Hannigan) impending marriage. Bawdy pal Stifler (Seann William Scott) still is around, though, to make sure that things don't get too saccharine. Original cast members Eddie Kaye Thomas, Eugene Levy and Thomas Ian Nicholas also return. DVD extras: audio commentary by filmmakers and cast members; "making-of" documentaries; deleted scenes; outtakes.  (R: AS, P)

"S.W.A.T.": In the tradition of other television series that have been reinvented by movies, this fast-paced adventure is based on co-producer Aaron Spelling's 1970s action show. Samuel L. Jackson assumes Steve Forrester's original role as Sgt. Hondo Harrelson, the leader of an elite Los Angeles police unit. The well-armed officers are put to the test when a drug kingpin (Olivier Martinez, "Unfaithful") promises a fortune to anyone who can retrieve him from police custody. Colin Farrell, Michelle Rodriguez, LL Cool J and Josh Charles play other members of the S.W.A.T. team. DVD extras: audio commentaries by director Clark Johnson, cast members, screenwriters David Ayer and David McKenna, and technical consultant Ed Ames; "making-of" documentaries; deleted scenes; outtakes.  (PG-13: AS, P, V)

"THE ORDER": Heath Ledger ("The Patriot") dons the collar in this supernatural thriller, which is likely to feel familiar to anyone knowledgeable of the genre. The clergyman investigates the death of his order's leader, which occurred under bizarre circumstances. A woman (Shannyn Sossamon, Ledger's co-star in "A Knight's Tale") previously exorcised by the young cleric assists him, as does another man of the cloth (Mark Addy, yet another co-star of "A Knight's Tale"). DVD extras: theatrical trailer; audio commentary by director Brian Helgeland; deleted scenes.  (R: AS, P, V)

"NORTHFORK": Filmmaking siblings Michael and Mark Polish ("Twin Falls, Idaho") create another telling portrait of small-town life with this exceedingly well-cast, frequently symbolic drama. The evacuation of a Montana region in the mid-1950s won't happen the easy way, since the flooding of the area is planned to make way for a hydroelectric dam. James Woods plays one of the would-be enforcers. Nick Nolte, Claire Forlani ("Meet Joe Black"), Daryl Hannah, Peter Coyote, Anthony Edwards and Kyle MacLachlan also star. DVD extras: theatrical trailer; audio commentary by Michael and Mark Polish; "making-of" documentary; photo gallery.  (PG-13: AS, P)

"SEX AND THE CITY: THE COMPLETE FIFTH SEASON": If this set drawn from the Emmy-winning HBO sitcom seems shorter than the others - well, it is, since fewer episodes were made to accommodate Sarah Jessica Parker's 2002 pregnancy. (The show is making up for it with a longer-than-usual sixth and final season.) As these tales begin, Carrie (Parker) is prompted to view New York as her love interest, instead of a man. Samantha (Kim Cattrall) remains haunted by Richard (James Remar), Charlotte (Kristin Davis) decides to move on with her love life, and Miranda (Cynthia Nixon) adjusts to motherhood. DVD extras: audio commentary on selected episodes by executive producer Michael Patrick King; "making-of" documentary; interactive trivia game.  (Not rated: AS, N, P)

"DANGER MAN": Shown in the United States under the title "Secret Agent," Patrick McGooohan's British 1960s adventure series about globe-trotting spy John Drake aired its first season only in England. Those 39 episodes become available in the U.S. for the first time in this five-disc DVD set. Critics appreciated the intense, level-headed Drake's penchant for using his wits instead of weapons. The production value that the show's makers got out of a modest budget remains impressive. DVD extras: photo gallery; McGooohan biography and filmography.  (Not rated: AS, V)

COMING SOON (Upcoming releases):

"OUT OF TIME" (Jan. 6): Denzel Washington plays a lawman implicated in a double homicide through his romantic link to one of the victims. Sanaa Lathan co-stars. (PG-13: AS, P, V)

"UNDERWORLD" (Jan. 6): A vampire, played by Kate Beckinsale, wreaks havoc in her quest to acquire what's necessary for her survival. Scott Speedman also stars. (R: AS, P, GV)

"UPTOWN GIRLS" (Jan. 6): Brittany Murphy plays a spoiled young woman who must enter the work force as the nanny to a wise-beyond-her-years child (Dakota Fanning). (PG-13: AS, P)

"FREDDY VS. JASON" (Jan. 13): Two icons of screen terror go up against each other in this horror offering that features singer Kelly Rowland and Jason Ritter. (R: AS, P, GV)

Danny Pino is a hot reason to watch CBS' 'Cold Case'

By any standard, Danny Pino has made it. Married to his childhood sweetheart, he lives in Hollywood, where he plays Scotty Valens on CBS' Sunday drama, "Cold Case" (which airs this week on Thursday, Jan. 1).

So, with the money, fame and a stable life, one would expect perks. And he gets them - until he visits home, where mom still makes him do chores. "Everybody had their things they had to do," he says. "I have to wash the dishes. I am so programmed, she doesn't even have to tell me anymore. I have taken enough sandals to the head to know it's time to take out the garbage."

Pino, 29, is the second-eldest of five brothers. "My mom is a stud," he says. "She really instilled a lot of great principles. She really is a great lady."

His mother, who has been teaching high school social studies for 32 years, and his father, an investment consultant, ran a tight ship. Both parents are Cuban migrants who came here with nothing and worked hard.

Pino, who was born here, is fluent in Spanish and English, and made his stage debut in sixth grade. It was in "Tracers of the Lost Parts of Speech," a musical at Rockway Elementary School in Miami. "There were dancing verbs and nouns and pronouns running around me, and I was the crazy professor who had lost his glasses," he says. "I was a silver-haired sixth grader."

Much as he enjoyed this, Pino's aspirations ran toward the traditional. "I wanted to be everything," he says. "I wanted to be a ballplayer, a Coast Guard, a lawyer."

As a child, he played baseball, football and swim, eventually working as a lifeguard. He loved the warm water of the Atlantic Ocean in Miami, and finds the Pacific Ocean - even in Southern California - frigid.

Also as a child, he met Lily. They went through junior and senior high school and college together. Now married for 1 1/2 years, they live in Los Angeles.

Before he came west, however, there was a detour in Manhattan. Pino initially considered law as a profession. Though he had earned an undergraduate scholarship in drama, he was taking prelaw classes at Florida International University in Miami. "It was two minutes from my house," he says. "And I still had to do the dishes."

While studying prelaw, he wrote a one-man play and performed it. The pull of the stage was becoming too strong to ignore, and he knew he had to broach the subject with his father.

"My dad was not excited about me becoming an actor," Pino recalls. "My mom was always supportive of whatever I wanted to do. My dad is a little more difficult to sway."

He told his father that a professor recommended he attend graduate school to study drama, and the senior Pino told his son this would be acceptable only if he made it into one of the country's top three graduate schools.

Luckily, he was accepted into NYU. "The advantage of NYU, Yale and Juilliard is that agents pay attention if you have gone there," Pino says.

Pino says 1997 through 2000, his years as a starving acting student in Greenwich Village, were wonderful. Living on noodles, and tuna and attending classes while living in a small flat in the West Village was romantic, and he says he knew it then.

After earning a master's in fine arts, Pino then earned impressive stage credits. He worked with top choreographer and director Susan Stroman at Lincoln Center in "Thou Shall Not." He worked in the New York Shakespeare Festival's "Measure for Measure." Most recently, he was on the London stage with Madonna in "Up for Grabs."

Within a year of graduation, Pino headed west and landed a part in the TV series "Men, Women & Dogs," then had a recurring role on "The Shield" as Armadillo Quintero. It was while there that a wonderful role came his way, that of Desi Arnaz in "Lucy" earlier this year.

"At first, I was, 'Man, how great would it be to play this character?'" he says of Arnaz. "It would be such an honor, being Cuban myself. I grew up watching 'I Love Lucy.' Once I got the role, I started getting a cold sweat. 'Oh no, this is my responsibility now.' You become an advocate for this person. You want to portray them as honestly as you can. You don't want to make them better than they were, and you don't want to vilify them either."

He sought advice from Michael Chiklis, who had portrayed Curly from the Three Stooges and John Belushi, and who knew the challenges inherent to playing famous people.

"What he told me - and it applies to every character you play - is really investigate them and get to know this person," Pino says. "Build this person up, so that they are alive to you today. Approach it psychologically at first, then physically - how the person walks ... After you do all that and amass all of that information, once you are on set, you let it go. You don't want to be imitating. You want to be yourself."

With only the slightest prodding, Pino lets loose with a perfect Ricky Ricardo laugh, then handily switches gears and talks about detectives trying to solve cold cases.

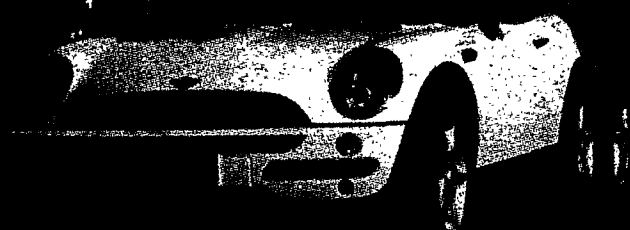

Danny Pino of "Cold Case" says his character is "a very confident guy. He is extremely intuitive without being book smart." The drama airs Thursday on CBS.
